The Tranquility of Troy

Set in the heart of the deep south is a university with an intense southern heritage. A co-ed may rush by low hanging magnolia limbs which bloom in silence. A commuter may pass by a speckled horizon of dewy cotton on his way to school. And still another student may find himself residing and having classes in buildings which date back to the early nineteen hundreds.

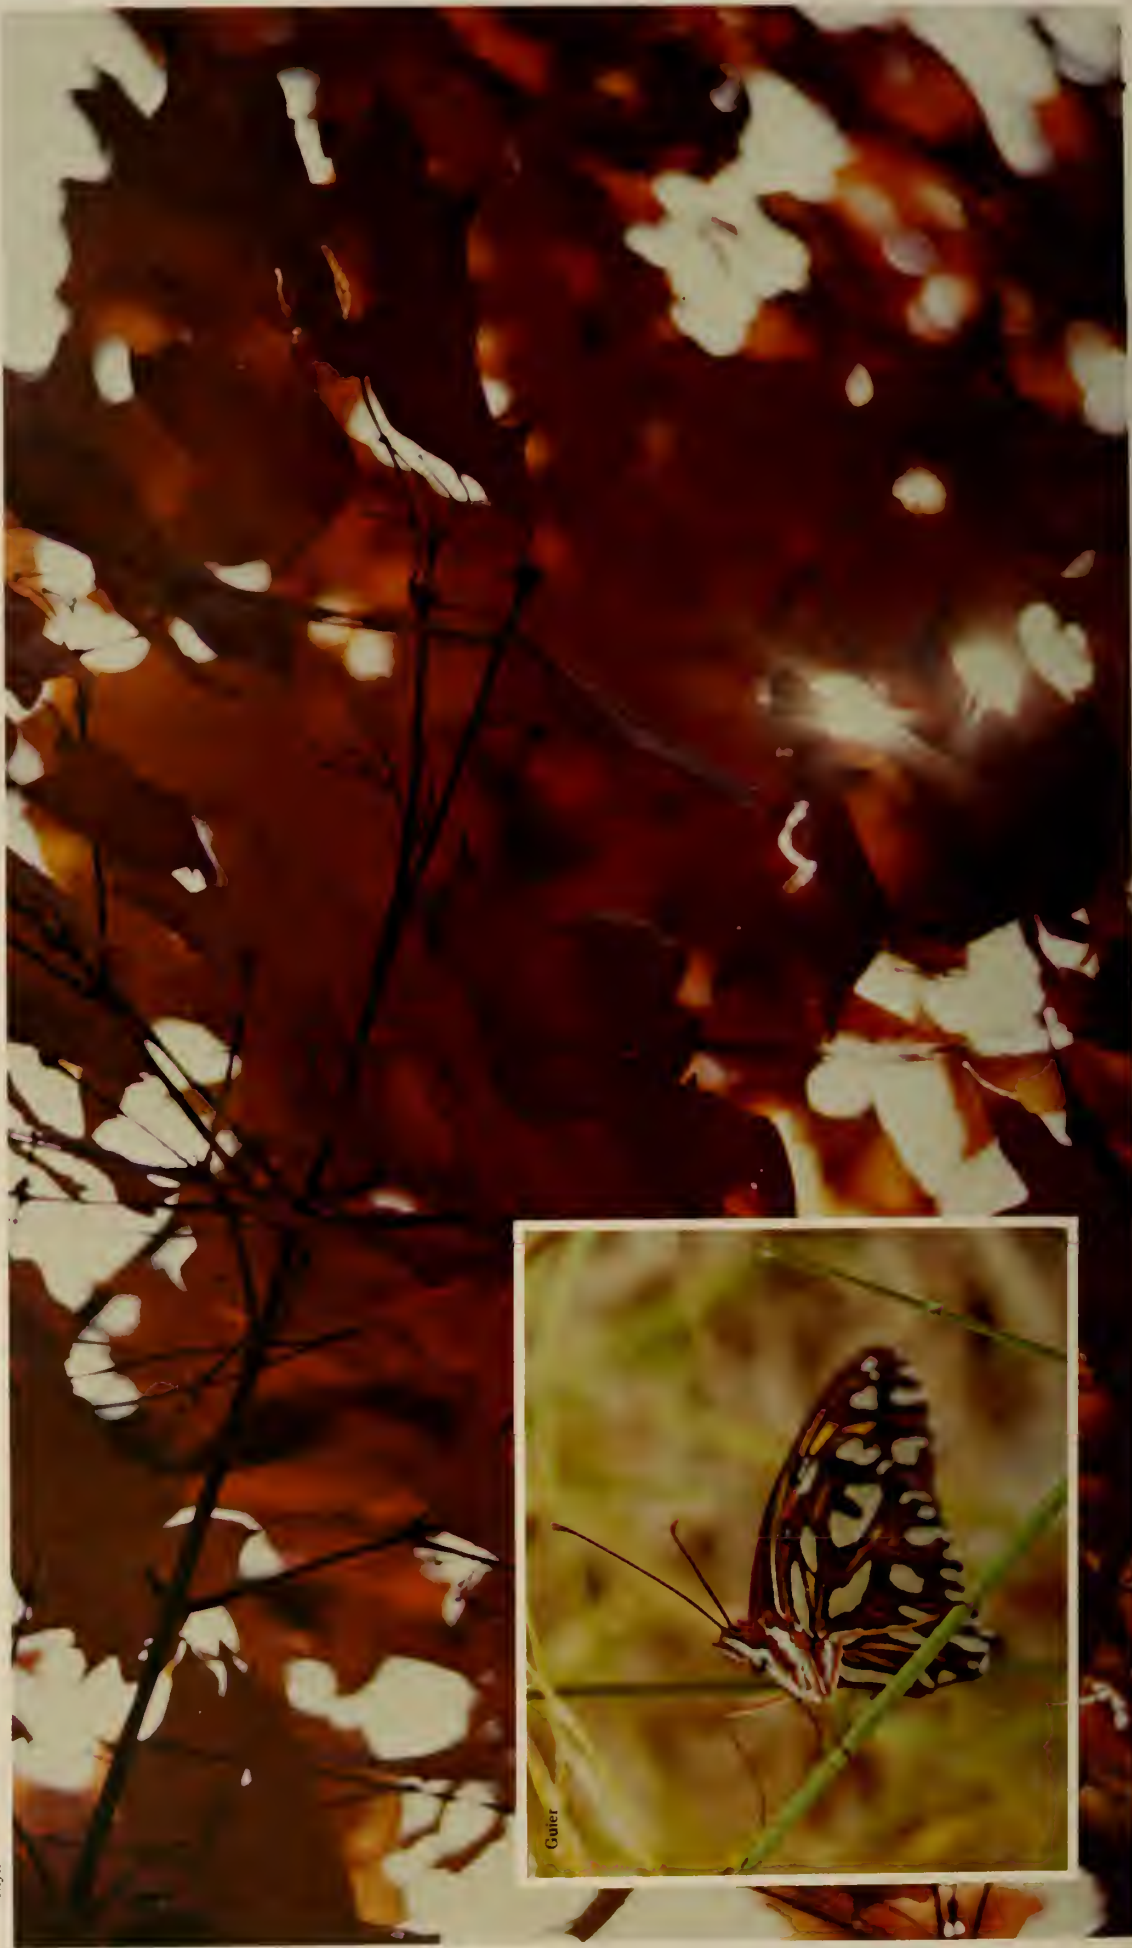

In and around Troy there are remnants of the past and symbols of a simpler way of life that is all but forgotten by a world that thrives on a much faster and efficient life style of the twentieth century.

Right: Wildlife thrives in the undisturbed ecology of southern farmland. Below: Since the 1800's railroads have played an important role in the development of the city of Troy. This channel of transportation just off Highway 29 is surrounded by a landscape of kudzu.

TSU Tradition A Part of the Future

The cornerstone of Troy Normal school was laid on August 24, 1887. The original campus was located in downtown Troy. Troy State University has undergone many changes through the years. Today the oldest building still standing on the present campus is Kilby Hall which was built in 1923. The newest architectural structure is the Sorrell Chapel which is nestled in a grove of oak trees behind Wallace Hall. The campus stands in the heart of Troy as a monument of past achievements and as a continual source of knowledge needed for the future.

Alma Mater

Our vows of love, our vows of faith dear school we've said to thee.
Strong man, each gentle maid will ever loyal be.
Not for a day, not for a year shall we each other greet.
as fellow students, fellow friends but till in heaven we meet.

So hail, Alma Mater, dear school, we all love thee.
So hail, Alma Mater, We'll aye be true to thee.

So when in days that are to come fond memories we recall.
The memories of dear Troy State, We'll cherish most of all.
Your stately portals, spacious halls in dreams we will enjoy.
And hearts again will sadly yearn for you, and days of Troy.

So hail, Alma Mater, dear school we all love thee.
So hail, Alma Mater, We'll aye be true to thee.

The Southland

A Heritage of Beauty

One way to note the history of a town is to observe its older homes. Troy has its share of aged dwellings. The two blocks of College Street between Cherry and Pine Streets contain a total of 18 beautifully preserved homes, some built as early as the 1870's. They represent some of the regions finest examples of Victorian, Greek revival and other turn of the century style architecture. Seldom does one find in such a concentrated area so many beautiful and historic buildings.

The peanut and cotton merchants, the city fathers, and the railroad presidents spent their spare time in the parlors and on the verandas of these beautiful homes around the turn of the century.

Right: This federal style home noted for its braided brick work and ionic columns is the home of Dr. Wilkes, a professor in TSU's biology department.

Below: Mr. Bashinsky, a Russian immigrant who made his fortune as a cotton broker, built this Greek Revival home in 1906. It is located on the corner of College and Pine Streets.

Left: Dr. Denison of TSU's Music Department and his family reside in this College Street Home. Built in the last quarter of the 19th century, it is a combination of Eastlake and Queen Anne design.

Below: In sharp contrast to the ornately decorated homes of old Troy, this Methodist Church which dates back to the 1800's is simple, practical and functional. It's impact lies in its proportions.

A traditional southern meal usually includes the following: Fried chicken, fried okra, field peas with ham hocks, corn on the cob, homemade cornbread, pecan pie and iced tea.

The Southern Drawl in Yall

People in the south seem to have a different outlook on life. Easy living comes naturally in a peaceful environment. That is not to say that the south is all "Jasmine and Julips." Alabama, itself, has several large cities with a wide range of industries. But even in the cities something is unique to this part of the United States. It might appear that southerners know something that people in other parts of the country have forgotten. The true southerner knows how to take life with a grain of salt. Some observations that reflect this theory are the southerner's unique speech patterns, his driving habits and his music.

Home-grown southerners are sometimes ridiculed for their southern drawl in such words as "ya'll" which is a distinct part of the vocabulary of Dixieland. It is very amusing to hear a person with a rich southern accent talking to someone from, say, Austria. Here on campus that would not be that uncommon since a majority of students are from the deep south and yet there is a large influx of foreign students as well. These slower speech patterns seem to reflect an easy lifestyle that is commendable in this fast-paced society.

Not only is this outlook on life observed in the region's colloquialisms but it can also be seen in the highways. For instance, a yankee will quickly tell you that people down here just don't drive as fast. Even in the cities of the south there is not that widespread pandamonium in rush hour like one finds in northern cities. People in the south seem to be more passive. In such a sub-culture where ladies are taught to be reserved and gentlemen are taught to be dignified, such a style of living is to be expected.

Southern music has its own distinct sound. Country groups like Alabama and the Charlie Daniels Band sing what some people now call an "upbeat country sound." It seems the one thing that all this music has in common is its straightforwardness. Country songs don't "beat around the bush" so to speak.

People in the south are most assuredly a proud breed. The stereotyped southerner relishes a good joke and a good homecooked meal. He takes life at his own pace.

Top left: A typical collection of southern artists' albums are found in Hamil hall room 413, which is occupied by Jenny Holder and Suzie Bell.

Llewellyn

Visualize a hill covered with tall oak trees and a valley of natural cane trees. It is said that the original site of Troy was once a hill that deer would race toward in search of shelter from the native hunters. Thus pioneers knew the settlement as Deer Stand Hill until it became Troy, Alabama in 1840.

It is not certain why the name of "Troy" was picked for the settlement. But it is most fitting that today, in the middle of the town, our very own Palladium, which crowns Troy States central building, stands guard over the city just as the fabled statue of Pallas Athena towered over the ancient Greek city of Troy as a charm of safety.

Southern Beauties

Alabama, the beautiful landscapes, beautiful cities and towns, and beautiful girls. Troy State has been blessed with beautiful girls, but not necessarily confined to Southern girls. With an influx of state and county Junior Misses and finalists in other beauty pageants, Troy had beautiful girls representative of throughout the United States and some foreign countries.

The South has a heritage of fine beautiful "belles" and although she cannot claim all of the beautiful girls at TSU, her claims are substantial. The student body at Troy State saw Yolanda Fernandez, 1982 Miss TSU become Miss Alabama. With this new crown, Yolanda returned to Troy to give up her title as Miss TSU to 1st Runner-up Juaneysa Wilkins. A native of Florida, Ms. Fernandez made Troy her new home. Almost the entire student body sat glued to the television set to see Yolanda compete and claim 3rd

Runner-up in the Miss America Pageant.

Cindy Willis, a junior from Montgomery, Alabama, was chosen Miss Homecoming by popular vote. Her court consisted of Sue Horvath, Diane Arzen, and Becky Redd.

Pat Griffin captured the hearts of the audience with her talent presentation of "They Could Not" in the 1983 Miss TSU pageant. Her title of Miss TSU gave her the opportunity to compete in the 1983 Miss Alabama Pageant.

Stephanie Hix made headlines after receiving the title of Miss National Teenager 1982. Other girls competed for titles varying from Watermelon Queen to National Sweetheart for their fraternities.

TSU had the opportunity of harboring many beautiful ladies and held true to the saying that "the South has the most beautiful women in the world."

Miss Alabama 1982
Yolanda Fernandez

Winning the title of Miss Alabama 1982 in June was the beginning of an exciting year for Yolanda Fernandez. Her prizes included a new Oldsmobile every 4,000 miles, a $10,000 wardrobe, a mink coat, scholarship money, a gold watch, and a set of luggage.

In preparation for the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City in September, Yolanda's many hours of piano practice, work-outs, wardrobe fittings, mock TV interviews, and photo sessions paid off when she returned to Troy with the title of 3rd Runner-up to Miss America.

Ms. Fernandez's titles gave her opportunities for appearances statewide. There were parades, store openings, luncheons, fashion shows, Championship Horse shows, walk-a-thons, tel-a-thons, golf tournaments, and always autograph sessions. Yolanda also attended prestigious events such as the Bob Hope Show in Florida and the Peanut Festival, spoke to the Alabama Legislature and with Governor Wallace, and visited the Veteran's Hospital and Children's Hospital.

As the year winded down, Yolanda spent much of her time working towards the 1983 Miss Alabama Pageant — promotional commercials, rehearsals, fittings, and more appearances. Yolanda still remained active on campus at TSU with Mortar Board, O.D.K., Alpha Psi Omega, Angel Flight, girl scout meetings, appearances with Pied Pipers and College Singers, and a lead role in the production of The Miracle Worker.

HOMECOMING

Not Just An Ordinary Weekend

Homecoming: a time for football fever, beautiful girls, and for the alumni, a time of remembering college days.

Homecoming actually started about two weeks before the big weekend. The Homecoming Pageant sponsored by SGA, spotlighted forty-seven girls representing university greeks, organizations, and honorary societies of which ten were chosen as semi-finalists.

The student body voted on these contestants and a queen and her court were announced at the Pep Rally Friday afternoon following the torch light parade. The cheerleaders promoted spirit with a bonfire and a mock hanging of a dummy with a Delta State jersey.

Saturday morning began with the Troy State Appreciation Day Parade running through downtown Troy and ending at Memorial Stadium. TSU organizations, greeks, civic clubs and downtown merchants, and, of course, the Queen and her court participated in the parade.

Alumni were invited back for a picnic in Bibb Graves Quad and various schools and organizations welcomed back graduates to private parties.

At last the moment came for the Queen to be crowned. Diane Arnzen, third runner-up, Becky Redd, second runner-up, and Sue Horvath, first runner-up received their roses and applause. A standing ovation was extended as Cindy Willis was crowned Homecoming Queen by Dr. Ralph W. Adams.

The Band entertained during halftime and gave a stirring post-game show. Following the game a reception was held at the President's home for all students and alumni.

The frenzy and excitement finally settled as another Homecoming at TSU became history.

Flexability Called For In Miss TSU Pageant

Some years a pageant will go smoothly. Then there are those times when things seem to take their own direction. Flexability was called for when one coped with illness, bad weather, and the emcee calling at the last moment from his sick-bed.

Becky Redd and Phil Kelley stepped right in and co-emceed the final night show without any warning and saved the life of the show. On the other hand, the opening number just "fell together" with the direction of Natalie Baldwin, Tonia Kirkland, and the contestants.

Pat Griffin was chosen among the 32 contestants to reign as Miss Troy State University 1983. Lisa Phelps was presented the talent award and Dena Dubberly captured the swimsuit competition.

Ms. Jacqueline Smith, pageant co-ordinator had these comments following the 1983 Pageant. "The pageant world takes so much preparation — not just the people who do the back stage work. The contestants have to prepare their talent, their walk, their hair, and on and on. With the preparation of all concerned, a pageant is pulled, pushed, folded, refolded, petted, and jolted into being by all who have any part in the show — and wow — when the show is over, everybody is tired, but, oh, so pleased and proud!"

National Pi Kappa Phi Rose Becky Redd

Becky Redd, a Broadcast Journalism and Social Science major from Auburndale, Florida, was presented the title of Pi Kappa Phi National Rose as part of the opening festivities at Pi Kappa College.

Every chapter submits their local sweetheart Rose with a portfolio and resume of campus and company activities and honors. The Board then selects through the process of a questionnaire and a personal interview.

Serving as National Rose has involved traveling to different chapters and conventions for Becky. Ms. Redd has supported Pi Kappa Phi's national project, PUSH, in which Pi Kappas design, build, and transport teaching units for the severely handicapped to various centers.

Becky's main emphasis has been on improving the Little Sister program. She has lead seminars teaching how to make the program a separate yet vital part of the fraternity.

Becky has felt, "a very special, and very real spirit of friendship which seemed to form an unbreakable bond between all the unique individuals of the fraternity. Through the past three years, I have come to learn that the bond is more than just mere friendship, but a bond so sincere that it can actually be called 'brotherhood'. This year, as National Rose, I've had the rare and wonderful opportunity to witness that very same spirit in practice among Pi Kappa Phi brothers from all over the country. Of course, I'm not actually a part of that brotherhood, but I'll always be grateful to National and TSU Pi Kapps for allowing me to share in their beautiful experience from the close female position of National Rose."

Miss National Teen-ager Stephanie Hix

Stephanie Hix, an 18-year-old freshman from Troy State was named Miss National Teenager 1983 in a pageant held in Lehigh, Florida. Miss Hix competed against 51 other contestants for more than $50,000 in tuition scholarships and prizes.

Each girl participated in interviews conducted by judges and an evening-gown competition. Contestants had their choice of writing an essay or giving a talent presentation. Stephanie's essay on Abraham Lincoln was awarded a $1000 scholarship from the National Heritage Foundation.

Stephanie read about the pageant in the newspaper. "It stressed scholastic achievement and appearance and I thought it would be good for me," she commented.

Miss Hix served as the ambassador teenager for the United States. Her title opened such doors as an interview on the "Today" show, a press conference in New York, and national commercials. She also received a $3000 personal appearance contract. In addition, she represented manufacturers and businesses during store openings, forums and parades. Stephanie dropped out of school for a quarter to do extensive traveling and meet various engagements.

The daughter of Major and Mrs. Max Hix, Stephanie hopes a major in accounting and business with a minor in speech and communications will help her in her career plans to one day become an FBI agent.

Stephanie was a member of Chi Omega sorority and a little sister of TKE fraternity.

Southern Living

"Kick yore shoes off and stay awhile!" In a world of instant everything, the South has struggled to retain that easy type of lifestyle. While everyone has only 24 hours in a day, a Southerner learns to take life one day at a time, one step at a time. When a Southerner works, he works hard, but when he relaxes, he KNOWS how to relax. That thirty minutes or so of solitude can tide him over to another day.

College is not the best place in the world to learn how to relax. Many students must learn to juggle their time between classes, work, and social life. Finding the time for an occasional "laid back" afternoon has been a distinctive part of being a resident in the South.

A cool breeze through the trees lakeside offered an opportunity for dates to enjoy a good home-cooked meal from a picnic basket. Basking in the sun gave many students the opportunity to escape from classes and "catch some rays." A fishing pole and a can of worms offered solace for conscientious fishermen and gave time for one to gather his thoughts. Even a hall party with cokes and popcorn gave many students a chance to relax and enjoy one another's company. Whatever the situation, a true Southerner knows how to take it easy and enjoys life for what it is. Students at Troy State took advantage of most opportunities even if it only included stopping to "smell the flowers."

Accepting changes was part of Starting Over

Just when you're comfortable with something . . . it changes. The transition from high school to college is a perfect example of this change. Everyone has had this problem but somehow managed to overcome it.

Adjusting to changes and accepting new responsibilities were essential to a freshman. At this stage of education they were not being pushed but rather had to push themselves.

These responsibilities included budgeting time and money and domestic, academic, and social responsibilities.

A major challenge for some freshmen was learning to budget their time and money. Sandy Kuchle commented, "The hardest adjustment I had was realizing I was here to get an education." Jill Bailey found "the will power to study" was not always there. Lisa Ligon said "The responsibilities of studying plus everything else is tripled in college compared to high school." With the pressure to live by the checkbook, many students found adjusting to a budget a new experience. As one student said "There's never enough!"

Another area that was new to students involved domestic responsibilities. Many students had their first experience with washing clothes at Troy. Although many carried dirty laundry home to Mama, there came that time when there's no clean underwear left. When Mother was not around to threaten one for not cleaning the room or making up the bed, things usually piled up, way up!

Social responsibilities change when one enters the college lifestyle. The first choice for many students was whether to "go Greek, or not" and then which one. Regardless, co-eds were faced with decisions about where to go and what to do constantly. Martha Day said she had a hard time with the temptation to go out when she needed to study.

Although many carried dirty laundry home to mama, there came a time when there's no clean underwear left.

Academic responsibilities were usually tied in with all other responsibilities. There was always that chapter to read or that project to do or that term paper to write. Dead Week was always welcomed because there were few distractions so one could catch up from being behind all quarter.

When one finally gets over the freshman "greens" he feels he has finally adjusted to this new lifestyle. But it's no time at all before he's receiving his diploma and realizing that "just when you're comfortable with college life, it's time to 'start all over' again."

Keeping "In-Style"

For many students keeping "in-style" was a priority, yet the cost of staying in fashion was often a consideration. A natural transition from the western look was the Prairie look. Many girls got out their western boots and co-ordinated them with dresses or skirts and shirts donned with hundreds of ruffles. The Prairie look was welcomed by some girls for its modest touch.

College students said "good-bye" to the alligator in place of the more popular (and expensive) Polo shirt. Ralph Lauren and Calvin Klein kept many students dressed in clean-cut plaids and the classic look. Calvin Klein also joined Jordache and other trade-names to develop a trend in designer jeans — usually the tighter the jeans, the better.

The preppy look continued as co-eds adopted button-downs and Khaki's as their natural dress style. As one student commented, "I feel the preppy look is practical and clean-cut. I do feel that it can be taken to the extremes, though."

Bandanas met the needs of the more physical look. Bandanas were worn as headbands and belts or worn loosely around the neck or collar of one's shirt.

The word for men's ties were skinny and wool or cotton knit Windsor knot ties that were very popular. Brave colors such as purple and pink became very fashionable with men's attire.

The tuxedo look became very popular as women's clothing took on a more aggressive theme. Women found the masculine bow and cummerbund to reflect a very sophisticated image.

Dress lengths and pants lengths changed patterns alternately. Pants ranged from peg legs to knickers with big being the adjective for women's sweaters.

Low-waisted dresses brought back styles from the 1920's while pumps added an extra dimension to clothing. During winter months leg warmers were a fashionable accessory.

Spring ushered in another change in dress lengths. Blousy miniskirts increased in popularity as tans were acquired. Panama Jack T-shirts flooded the market and the wearing of nylon running shorts was not restricted to joggers.

Calvin Klein, Jordache, Gloria Vanderbilt, and Lee are some of the names in jeans that made it big on college campuses.

CHRISTMAS IN TROY

The classrooms lie idle, the sidewalks are virtually untraveled, and the dorms are remarkably quiet. Troy State is no longer the heavy paced campus that it was just a few weeks before. When the trauma of final exams is over, there remain those students who have the opportunity to see Troy during Christmas. Many of these worked on campus or around the county.

Those foreign students who stayed for the break made Dill Apartments their temporary home.

Although one might think that Troy would be "dead" without the college students, many townspeople appreciate its own distinct beauty. Beth Bracewell commented, "I like Troy better at Christmas than any other time of the year because the town takes on a different character."

This Christmas was special for Troy residents. Downtown merchants and civic organizations decorated the newly renovated square and downtown area. PM Magazine covered the Christmas parade and judged the decorations.

The Commuter

In today's colleges, many students found commuting a comfortable alternative to living on campus. The high cost of an education was the reason for many students to live at home while off-campus housing looked more attractive to other students.

Commuters faced many advantages and disadvantages, but almost all commuters faced the problem of transportation. Students were often faced with having to drive through bad weather and having to park far away from where their classes met. Often during earlier hours, vacant parking spaces were limited to almost none.

Buddy King, a student majoring in art, commuted from a small community twenty miles northeast of Troy. Buddy commented that the drive to school enabled him to wake up and also to collect his thoughts about the coming day.

A second concern of commuting students was in the area of academic responsibilities. Shirley Reynolds, a senior from Troy, Al., found trouble in setting up her schedule without large time gaps between classes. Shirley was forced to stay on campus from 8:00 to 3:00 for her classes. She spent much of her free time studying or watching television in the Adams Center. Many commuters had to stay late for night labs or work on projects in the library.

Advantages of living at home included such things as more privacy, a family life, and better food. Disadvantages could have included family pressures, obligations to do chores, or a curfew.

Many commuters were disappointed because they could not become as actively involved in campus activities as those who lived on campus. Distance restrained many from returning to club meetings and other on-campus functions. Others felt uninformed and were not interested in living the "college life".

Jean Lake Memorial Art Show pays

Tribute to Southern Artist

May 7 and 8, 1983 was history for the Troy Council on the Arts and Humanities. After much work and preparation, the Jean Lake Memorial Art Show was held on the grounds of the Pike Pioneer Museum. Artists from all over the South attended Troy's first professional art show.

The art show was held as a tribute to Jean Lake. Born, reared, and educated in Troy, Jean Lake attended Troy State University. Mrs. Lake's major works centered on fading scenes of a rural South. Many of her famous works were displayed at the art show.

Artists were selected to attend by submitting slides of their work which were juried by a committee from the Arts Council and only the best were invited to attend.

Many Troy organizations provided refreshment booths and such entertainment as the TSU Jazz Ensemble, a mime, Jim Bell, and Lynda's School of Dance were provided both days.

MAY DAY CARNIVAL

Slurring, Chugging, Spitting, and More!

A jello slurp, a chugging contest (Mello Yello, of course) and dinner on the grounds — what more could one ask for in Troy, AL. The Adams Center Union Board offered this and much more in their May Day Carnival held May 5, 1983.

After 2½ months of preparation, having had experience from a previous carnival, and much prayer time resulting in a beautiful day, Natalie Baldwin, ACUB members, and many campus organizations saw the 2nd May Day Carnival materialize into a successful event.

All-time favorite contests were the Jello Slurrin' and Mello Yello Chugging, and according to Natalie Baldwin, "They are now annual events." Randy Maudlin captured the Jello Slurrin' contest while the Mello Yello Chugging contest winner fled the scene before being recognized.

Troy merchants donated prizes and Stacy Krebs was the big winner of a clock radio in the ticket drawing. Organizations sponsored booths with such notables as a powder puff throw, football throw, Weightlifting competition, ring toss, kissing booth, and even a tobacco spitting contest.

The Mr. May Day contest was a new event introduced to give TSU's males a chance to shine in competition. Bruce Hooper was given the title of Mr. May Day and Wayne Strickland was 1st Runner-up.

A concert was held in the amphitheatre by "September" to wind things down and the second May Day Carnival became history.

That's The College Life!

BOOKIN' IT

Books! Books! Books! Who needs them? Students do! Students are faced each quarter with the decision of where to buy books, and are amazed at the rising cost of textbooks. As freshman Anita Cumbie commented, "I was shocked as a college freshman to discover the textbooks for my first quarter cost over $80.00 — for three classes!" In high school one's books are provided at no cost, but as one advances to college, textbooks are no longer "freebies."

At TSU, there are three alternatives to purchasing books. The University Textbook Center is TSU's main source for new and used textbooks. Many students who became dissatisfied with the Textbook Center found other alternatives. Junior Vicki Comer has found, "Paying a fortune for new books is bad enough, but the worst part of it is that when you sell them back to the Book Store — hardly used — you get less than half of what you paid for them." Sherry Dudley stated, "As a sophomore, I have learned to buy and sell my books where I can get better prices for their value." One alternative is the Used Textbook Exchange, a service allowing students to buy and sell books through the S.G.A. Also, students found selling books directly to other students to be the most profitable method.

One TSU student, Linda Kelley, had an optimistic outlook on buying books. "Prices of books for my major are somewhat expensive. I try to look at it from the standpoint of it being a good investment for my future."

Going To School The

Second Time Around

For many young people, college is the logical next step after high school, but others decide to wait and attend college later in life. Also many college graduates come back later for another degree. Charlotte Farmer, Mary and Drew Blythe, and J.C. Harden all found it advantageous to attain a degree later in life.

Charlotte Farmer attended Troy as a freshman in 1960. She was majoring in HPER and minoring in English. In 1965, two children later, Charlotte returned for two quarters.

Spring quarter 1981 marked the third time Charlotte enrolled at TSU, this time as a full-time student with a new major and a new start at 39. After 15 years Charlotte's record still followed her and she spent two quarters on probation as a result of "having fun" her freshman year.

Ask any of the girls in Hamil and they'll tell you Charlotte is "one of the girls." Being an A.D. in a dorm and eating SAGA-style may seem unusual for a forty-year-old woman but Charlotte felt her studies should come first. She's had her share of dirty dishes and cleaning house.

Charlotte says she thoroughly enjoys school. After fifteen years of housework and diapers, she has not found one class that is boring.

Charlotte makes a quick check of her daily duties as an A.D. in Hamil Hall.

Llewellyn

She also had no hang-ups with college-age students although she sometimes missed talking with people her own age group.

Charlotte's advice to anyone is a saying her sister shared with her before Charlotte returned to TSU: "Take one day at a time."

Mary and Drew Blythe had always wanted to get a college degree but waited until raising full-grown children to fulfill this dream. Mary's daughter, Merri Renfroe, from a previous marriage, also attended TSU the same year. When asking if having her mother going to the same school as she attended presented any problems for Merri she commented, "No, it's really been a help! I'm very close to my mother and having her around is great! I'm very proud of my parents. I'm majoring in CIS and my father helps me a lot with my school work. They both look after me and it makes me more secure knowing they're here to help."

Mr. Blythe majored in Computer Science in order to get a better job. Mrs. Blythe's major was Studio Art.

Mr. Harden listens attentively during his general math course.

Drew and Mary Blythe, and Merri Renfroe work on their homework together.

Retirement didn't stop Mr. J.C. Harden from getting an education. Although Mr. Harden had been supposedly retired for over 12 years he still farmed after attending 2 classes at TSU daily.

J.C. has farmed all his life. His ambition in the 1920's was to graduate from high school, attend TSU, and teach the following fall on a limited certificate. Like many people, his finances prevented him from ever finishing high school.

After retirement, Mr. Harden saw his earlier ambition come true. After passing the G.E.D., he was admitted to Troy State. Mr. Harden completed his history major spring quarter of 1983.

J.C. says a man owes God and his fellow man something in return for his being here. He feels blessed to be able to return to school and enjoy an increase in knowledge.

Whatever the circumstances, most adults have found going to school different the second time around.

HALLOWEEN

Halloween is that time of year dedicated to pranks and merrymaking, trick-or-treating, witches and jack-o-lanterns, parties and fun. Although Halloween is basically a children's holiday, the students at Troy State found many ways to celebrate Halloween this year.

Clements Hall held its first costume party on their patio sponsored by the House Council. Clements Hall residents and their dates attended the dorm celebration that lasted from 7:00 to 12:30 Halloween night. A variety of costumes were donned, but the most outstanding one was that of a Tylenol bottle worn by Randy Mauldin. Other popular costumes included punk rockers, a Yankee Doodle Dandy, a guerilla, Yoda from "Star Wars", and a flasher.

Several campus organizations also had parties. Air Force ROTC had their annual costume party at the armory. Music fraternities Tau Beta Sigma and Kappa Kappa Psi sponsored a band party consisting of a costume contest and a Jello throwing contest.

Chi Omega sponsored a fund-raising project for Halloween. The pledges took orders for Halloween cookies with a message and delivered them on Halloween day. Gamma Beta Phi sold Spook-a-grams for UNICEF and ISCO went trick-or-treating for UNICEF.

And finally, one way that some students achieved their "kicks" at Halloween was through pranks. Shackelford Hall is famous for its own benign ghost — Sally Shack. One "Shack" resident dressed up as Sally and left eerie messages on other residents' doors. One of the most memoorable pranks included putting red dye in the shower nozzle for an unsuspecting girl.

TSU students used any occasion to PARTY and Halloween was no exception.

Adapting to College Life

Means Digging a Little Deeper

"Not another price increase!" Rising tuition. Rising food prices. Rising utilities. "What goes up, must come down" is an encouraging thought, but little relief was evident for the increasing cost of living in 1982-83. Along with the rest of America, TSU students were forced to find ingenious ways of "stretching the dollar."

Transportation presented economic problems for some students. At a time when gas prices started declining, a 5¢ federal tax was tacked onto the price of gasoline. A trend toward smaller cars was evident when the price of gasoline became stable at three digits. Better gas mileage in newer cars helped balance out the price of fuel.

Jeff Johnston, a sophomore from Arton, AL commented, "On sunny days I save gas by walking to school rather than driving." Mike Dickson from Dothan, AL saved money by living on campus. He didn't have to drive his car much because the size of the campus allowed him to walk almost anywhere he needed to go.

Ms. Jacqueline Smith, Secretary to the V.P. of Student Affairs, lived almost four miles from the campus, but saved one-half on gas by car pooling four days a week. Kaye Leverette commuted 70 miles a day from Brantley, AL

Other methods of transportation included riding bicycles or mopeds. Brandt Cosgrove from Zephre Hills, FL purchased a moped to ride to and from classes on sunny in a two-people car pool. Kaye drove one week and her friend Ellen drove the next week. This saved her about $50 a month.

A travel board was placed on first floor at Adams Center. This ACUB service provided cards to fill out if one needed transportation home. This allowed many students the chance to catch a ride home and split the gas expense. Several other students rode bicycles to combine exercise with saving money.

Eating, although a necessity, presented an economic hardship for many students. Those students living on campus were required to purchase at least an 8-meal plan. With an increase in the cost of meal tickets, some students had to go from a 20 or 14-meal plan to an 8-meal plan and tighten the belt.

Living off campus allowed students to cook for themselves. Bob Jones from Port

Riding a bicycle is an effective way of combining saving money and getting exercise.

St. Joe, FL found "group eating" a way of saving money. "Getting five or six people together to eat spaghetti for $1.50 each is one way." Living in a fraternity house meant "every man for himself," but splitting expenses saved money and also provided privacy not often afforded in the dormitory. Using off-brands or generic brands also made eating less expensive.

Clipping coupons or catching sales were other methods of saving pennies. Local fast-food places and restaurants offered specials to make "eating out" possible. Wendy's made The Tropolitan a hot item with their weekly "Buy one, get one free" coupons. Western Sizzlin' offered 99¢ Night on Mondays and Tuesdays and ran specials almost every day on different dinners.

Rising tuition and a cut in grants made getting an education harder for all involved. Scholarships and work-study jobs were available, although budget cuts meant a decrease in both. One work-study person emphasized, "If it were not for my on-campus job, I would not be able to go to college at all. Every month the business office teller hands me my work-study check, I endorse it, and I hand it right back."

Those who don't qualify for work-study or financial aid often found jobs at local fast-food places or with Troy merchants. Auburn Foreman from Brundidge, AL worked at The Playmaker after his classes to help pay expenses. Others did odd jobs such as typing term papers to add extra cash to their pocketbooks.

Even the simple act of "reaching out to touch someone" reached further into the pockets of students. The cost of a local call on a pay phone increased from a dime to a quarter. Calling information cost residents an additional 40¢ in many instances.

Entertainment was often restricted due to a lack of funds. Playing cards or watching TV was a cheap means of entertainment. With the outrageous price of movies, many students only attended theatres on Bargain nights.

Even dating felt the tight squeeze. A meal and a movie, a previous stereotype for a date, was often too expensive for most couples. Instead, many couples stayed in the dorm room or apartment and watched television. Crystal thinking ahead. "I don't take money to the Adams Center unless I have a reason for doing so. If I don't have it on me, I won't spend it. I usually

"I don't take money to the Adams Center unless I have reason for doing so. If I don't have it on me, I won't spend it. I usually don't have any money, anyway."

Green and Dwaynd Thompson rarely went out for entertainment. They agreed that going out can hurt the purse and pocketbook. Their dates often consisted of spending time together.

Amy Foster from Center-ville, AL saved money by

Whatever the situation, TSU students learned to adapt, but they learned that often "Adapting to college life means digging a little deeper!"

Computer Registration

Computer registration is not new to college campuses, but winter quarter 1983 marked the first time Troy used computer registration. Computer registration was a joint effort between the Records office and the Computer Center. The business office was also involved in the planning procedures. A total package was bought from IBM to be used for more than just computer registration. John Davis adapted the system for the university.

Mr. Sheryl Bees from Counseling commented, "After a few problems that are expected, it ran extremely well. It was very rare to see someone disenchanted with the process."

Students were very suspicious of computer registration the first time around. A common response of students when completing registration was, "Is that all?" A major advantage over the old system was allowing students to see what classes were readily available. Students were open to the options they had without going through the "tenth degree" stress of the old system.

Debbie Hunt enjoyed registration because "it's a lot less hassle." Debbie said she registered in 5 minutes as opposed to 2½ hours. Gail Ripley enjoyed computer registration also because "it took a lot less time." Doug McGriff said computer registration was good because one didn't have to go back to get a teacher's signature when a class was filled up. As one faculty member commented, "Computer registration is a welcome addition."

Moving in, telephone bills, utilities, and deposit fees — they all make up living off-campus a new experience. For those students who desired to live off-campus, there were often some obstacles but to many the effort was worth the trouble.

All married students who had not reached the age of 19 years prior to enrollment were required to live on-campus the entire academic year or remaining portion thereof, unless they resided with their parents. This gave many freshmen no option as to where they would live but as one student commented, "Everyone should live in the dorm their first quarter because they are forced to meet new people." After proving eligibility, many students jumped at the chance to get off-campus.

Many students chose living off-campus because of the privacy not always offered on the campus. Leslie Braman said, "I moved into a house because it allowed me more privacy and room to move around in. With two people in a dorm room, it's hard to store things, let alone trying to get to them when you need them."

Another reason for leaving dorm life quoted by students was cooking for themselves. All students residing on campus were required to purchase at least an 8-meal plan in Stewart Hall.

Many students did not like having to eat "Saga-style" but rather preferred to choose their own menus. Also cooking in the dorms was only permitted in the inner lobby kitchens of the dorm that provided such facilities. Cooking was also quoted as a reason for not moving off-campus. Although Stewart Hall was not perfect, some students preferred prepared meals without having to clean dirty dishes.

The Student Government Association published an "Off-Campus Housing Survey" to assist students interested in living off-campus. Apartment monthly rentals ranged from $150-$259 in the Troy area.

Living off-campus definitely involved weighing the pro's and con's, but for approximately 50% of the students attending the main campus, not living on campus was more popular.

Fads that made it in 1982-83

"Gag me with a spoon! Not, like, another FAD! I mean, like totally Barf me out!" Valley talk was just one of the fads of 1982-83. Imported from California, valley talk did not catch on in the south as quickly, but young people used valley phrases to spice up conversation. Others found valley talk "grody to the max."

For those who got into music a popular trend was a Walkman. Unlike the large "jam boxes" the Walkman was compact and had earphones attached. Students could be seen walking on campus wearing their earphones with radio attached to hip.

Music lovers in Troy also experienced another new fad in music. This was M-T.V., the video chanel enabling viewers to see their favorite songs performed in video 24-hours a day. Such performers as Men at Work, Prince, Journey, and Michael Jackson performed their songs with actions. This gave the advantages of "radio with vision."

Another trend that has increased in popularity was aerobics and jazzercise. Losing weight became more than a national past-time — it became an insatiable desire. "Jane Fonda's Work Out Record" was instrumental in combining music with exercise.

Females everywhere fell in love with Adoptable Dolls. Many of the dolls came with birth certificates and adoption papers. The ages of the dolls ranged from infant up and they came in all sizes, sexes, and colors. The trend became so big that a hospital in Georgia was established strictly for adopt-a-dolls.

Cartoon characters "made it big" with college students. Ziggy, a cute pudgy-faced man, poured out his problems on the world. Smurfs found their beginnings in Saturday morning cartoons, but soon became popular on the commercial market at stuffed animals, posters, figurines, and other paraphernalia. Garfield even made points on TSU's campus. The Adams Center Bookstore sold posters with Garfield saying "For a good time call . . . Troy State University" and "Here I am at Troy State — Big fat hairy deal!"

Send in the Clowns . . .

The students here are from a colorful combination of cultures. They have all come together in order to better prepare for a specific career.

While here, we are a humorous bunch. We sing, we dance, we laugh, we cry, we complain and we flatter.

When we leave this university we know we must begin living dreams that we have been so carefully cultivating.

It is no wonder that we clown around so much when one considers the pressure of spending time and money all for a plan — a blue print of what we hope to become.

Goals . . . Redirected

Some people enjoy school so much they can't stay away. Although this may not be the consensus of Sherrie Drinkard she returned to Troy for a second major. Sherrie, born in Dothan, graduated from Troy in 1975 with a Social Rehabilitation Service degree. She worked in this field for a year and then she married and moved back to the Troy area. When her son was two years of age she wanted to get back into SRS but because of the economy there were few jobs open in her field. So she went to work at the bank, for two years waiting for something to open up. Sherrie was not satisfied working at the bank when she had a degree so she came back to Troy State to get a teaching certificate in Early Childhood Education.

Sherrie said that it has been difficult to raise a family and be a full time student too. Her husband helps a lot at home because he understands the pressure she is under. Sherrie's son is now five and can basically take care of himself without getting into too much trouble. She believes he is benefitting from her major because she tries all her activities on him and he is learning things.

Sherrie would like to teach, obtain a master's in Counseling, and become a guidance counselor in an elementary school.

Not the Normal Eight to Five

"Some people do not consider nursing a profession, but it is." Jeanie Holt feels strongly about this. A twenty-one year old senior nursing student from Troy, Alabama, Jeanie knew she wanted to work in a health-related field while in high school.

In high school, Jeanie served as chairman for the March of Dimes Walk-a-thon. As a result of this, she became interested in working with birth defects. Jeanie weighed the facts and came to the conclusion that a doctor has limited time with a patient but a nurse has constant care.

Jeanie has found nursing to be an exciting yet pressured major. Setting priorities and meeting schedules are always part of Jeanie's day. Jeanie lives by the calendar.

"The entire scope of nursing should be willing to give more than to accept. You aren't doing it for the money or the normal eight to five job. You aren't working with machines or numbers but with people. You are dealing personally with people and there are not set rules with individuals," commented Jeanie.

Jeanie hopes to eventually go into OB or nursery and someday work with children born with birth defects or premature babies.

From Zimbabwe to Alabama...

Not many Troy State students can profess to having killed an elephant. Nigel Smith, a junior from Salisbury, Zimbabwe grew up in a very different environment than Alabama. After high school, he went into the National Service for eighteen months, where he fought in the Terriorist War. It was during this war that he had to put an elephant out of its misery after the poor beast lost his foot from a mine explosion.

Nigel worked for the Department of Taxes in Rhodesia, which is now called Zimbabwe. It was through the event of "majority rule" that Nigel retired from this position. It was through a good friend, TSU student Leslie Bondi, that he learned of Troy State and she persuaded him to come to America.

When he first arrived in Troy he said that the affluence of the students was impressive. It seemed everyone had nice cars and lived in a relaxed lifestyle. Nigel was also impressed by the friendliness of his new community.

The climate is one that Nigel found familiar. Back in Zimbabwe the country is very agricultural and the typical apparel is shorts and T-shirts.

Since coming to Troy, Nigel has found our accents interesting and had trouble initially in what was being said, though now he says he has become accustomed to our accents.

For recreation, Nigel has played Rugby for the last twelve years. He was actively involved with the 1983 TSU rugby team. Nigel loves rugby and says that it is not as dangerous as people seem to think it is; and in fact, he considers it less dangerous than football.

Artist Returns for Degree

Student Larry Strickland's story is a fairly unique one in that he has graduated from one of the most prestigious art schools in America and he has now returned to Troy State University to finish his Bachelor of Science Degree in Art. Strickland, a thirty-four year old senior from Florida, Alabama, has shown his work throughout the United States in art exhibitions and one man shows.

Just what is his specialty? It is wood sculpture. Anyone visiting Larry's apartment finds himself in a world of imaginative creations. Strickland has a talent for seeing a figure in a piece of old knotted wood that most people would simply burn in the fireplace for kindling. He works with the wood to bring out the figure enough so that the rest of the world can see what he saw all along. All the while, he is careful to maintain the original integrity of the material.

This artist is not limited to one medium, however. Watercolors are another favorite of Stricklands. He stretches his watercolor paper over a canvas frame, a technique he picked up on the streets of New Orleans. Some of Strickland's work is featured in the opening of this book.

Just Read My Lips

Imagine sitting in class when someone starts singing "Jeremiah Was a Bullfrog" and no one's mouth is open. This was the first time Marybeth Boyd shared her ventriloquism at school. "It took about five minutes before the teacher figured out it was me and the girls besides me were dying laughing," added Marybeth.

Marybeth, a senior Broadcast Journalism major from Leary, Georgia, learned her hobby from a fellow staffer at Camp Dixie while working there as a sixteen year old. Marybeth has been on local television twice, and performed for churches, schools, women's clubs, and for elderly people. Marybeth was chosen as a non-finalist talent performer at the Miss TSU Pageant in 1981.

Ms. Boyd knew she wanted to go into the broadcast journalism field in the eleventh grade and hoped to use her "little friends" in some way. She served as news producer of WTSU-TV beginning fall quarter of 1982. Marybeth's goals are to become a newscaster and ultimately to replace Barbara Walters!

Marybeth served as Historian to Alpha Epsilon Rho, National Broadcasting Society.

Making Ends Meet

Benton

One of many students who finds it necessary to work while attending school is junior, Tim Getchell from Umatilla, Florida. Tim first came to Troy on a two-year scholarship with paid full tuition and out of state fees.

Like many other students Tim works at odd jobs during the breaks but he also often holds down jobs during the school term. One such job was that of checking peanuts for moisture at a local peanut warehouse.

Getchell's major is criminal investigation with a minor in computer science. He plans to be a marine Corps intelligence man and for hobbies he enjoys racket ball, hunting, and jogging.

Cheering in the Blood

Each summer nine groups of cheerleaders from the Dynamic Cheerleaders Association travel to thirty-nine states teaching cheers, skits, and routines to enthusiastic young women. Dawn Lea Butler, an eighteen year old freshman from Eclectic, Alabama, was one of those cheerleaders.

Dawn was a Panther cheerleader for five consecutive years at Elmore High school. While in high school Dawn worked hard at being a good leader of cheers. Dawn became interested in DCA one year while attending one of its camps in Carrollton, Georgia. It was here that Dawn along with hundreds of other girls filled out an application to become a DCA instructor.

Miss Butler was one of the few chosen. She traveled to Missouri to be interviewed and then she attended a two week training camp with 60 other new instructors where she learned cheers and routines. The following summer she spent two and a half months traveling with five other instructors to colleges in Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, and various states in Canada.

Looking back on her summer as a DCA instructor, Dawn said, "Cheering for DCA has been one of the greatest experiences of my life." The DCA philosophy sums up Dawn's cheering career; "Say yes to the challenges of being the best you can be."

Roots in Italy

Larry Turrin, a 20 year old junior, was born on Hahn Air Force Base in Germany. He really doesn't call any place home, after having lived in nine different cities thus far. His father, a former fighter pilot in the Vietnam War has been in the Air Force for 27 years at this writing.

Turrin's father's family is Italian. In fact, there is a town, Turin, Italy, named for Larry's ancestors. Larry's mother's bloodline is German. Larry treasures the time when he has been around his relatives.

Troy State University was Larry's choice for further education because he liked the idea of a small school and because TSU is reputable for having the best ROTC program in the southeast. The fact that Larry's sister was already attending TSU also had some bearing on his decision.

Larry loves all sports and is particularly interested in football, basketball, and golf. With a major in computer science, Larry plans to become an Air Force Fighter Pilot. He currently holds the position of Second Lieutenant.

A Long Way From Home

Nineteen year old Latonya Thornton found Troy State University to be the logical place for her to continue her education since everyone in her family has graduated from TSU. Latonya was born in De Riddler, Louisiana but her permanent residence is now in Wiesbaden, Germany. There is a TSU branch in Wiesbaden but it only offers graduate courses so Latonya came back to the States to attend college.

Miss Thornton is able to go home twice a year, during Christmas and during spring break. It takes seven to nine hours of flying to get to Germany.

Give Everything Your Best Shot

Paula Kendrick, a sophomore majoring in Art with an emphasis in design, is an ambitious young woman. She is a member of the Art Guild and she holds three offices in the Trojan Trickettes organization. These are secretary, rush chairman, and secret pals coordinator. She is also an honorary little sister for Sigma Phi Epsilon at Auburn University.

Paula attended Jeff Davis High School where she was a cheerleader for five years. She was also editor of her high school yearbook her junior year. During her senior year, Paula joined the band where she played the cymbals.

Miss Kendrick feels that women should have an equal place in the business world. Her greatest inspiration has come from her father who once told her to "Give everything your best shot." Those words have stuck in her head ever since. Paula hopes that one day she can open an advertising firm.

Co-ed Siblings

How would you like to be in Jack Trippers shoes on Three's Company? Well, you should meet Gary Wisener who happens to live with two girls. Actually Gary lives with his two sisters, Cheri, a senior and Donna, a sophomore.

Gary says that living with his two sisters makes being away from home a lot easier. When he decided to go away to college, Gary was hesitant because he knew he would have to leave behind good friends, and most of all a town that he had lived in all his life. Having two siblings around made the adjustment less traumatic.

He does not have the opportunity to go home on weekends but he does find time to keep in touch with his family through the phone system. Gary likes the responsibility of being on his own for the first time and he likes the challenge of college.

When asked what was his main reason for coming to Troy, Gary said it was because he had heard so much about it from his sisters!

Living in the Real World

Henton

Craig Koller now calls home Kwajalin Marshall Islands which are located in the South Pacific about 2,500 miles south of Hawaii. His out of state fees are incredibly about the same as those of a Floridian.

Craig was born in Port St. Joe, FL, but because his father is a Computer Engineer the family has moved around quite often. They have traveled from Massachusettes to New Hampshire, Minnesota, Alabama and California. In 1973 Craig and his family moved to the Marshall Islands and remained until 1977 when his parents thought they should return to the "real world."

They went from Florida to Georgia where they remained until 1980. Then the Kollers were ready to return to the Islands. With all the layovers it takes approximately 24 hours to fly the 8,000 miles from Kwayalin to Alabama. Craig does not get to go home very often, but one good thing is that for each child in his father's household still attending school, one free trip home is given per year by his company.

On the Marshall Islands there are no particular styles, it is a beach atmosphere. There are no colleges on the island itself; the nearest one is in Hawaii. There are practically no personally owned automobiles, the major transportation method is by bicycles.

Craig came to Troy because there are relatives close by and because many friends from Kwayalin go to school in Alabama.

Being a Freshman is Cool

Charlie Dorr, a freshman from Winter Haven discovered when he arrived at Troy State University that there were lots of students here from his hometown, none of which he knew.

Charlie says there is no difference in being a freshman. He says it doesn't bother him as long as people don't know. According to Dorr, in high school freshmen get hassled but it's no big deal at college.

Being the all American type, he wrestled his senior year in high school and he worked this past summer in Wyoming at a dude ranch. Among his duties were the tasks of saddling horses for guests, feeding the horses, and just being the all around head gopher.

Charlie is undecided about his major but is leaning toward business, and would possibly like to go into real estate.

ASN Student Strives for Excellence

Mary Alice Vinson, a resident of Montgomery is an active student at Troy State University in Montgomery. Mary is originally from Ramer, Alabama and had planned to attend Troy State's main campus before getting married. Mrs. Vinson was a full-time LPN at St. Margarets Hospital but she now has returned to school to upgrade her skills.

"The most interesting part of my life is that I'm going to school to improve my career opportunities," says Mrs. Vinson. She likes the field of nursing because she is not confined to an office and she likes the idea of working with people. Among Mary's hobbies reading and soap-operas are included.

Kappa Kappa Psi

Kappa Kappa Psi is the National Honorary Band Fraternity serving both marching bands and concert bands across the nation. The chapter at Troy State University was selected as one of the top ten in the nation for the 1982-83 school year. This honor came as the result of the hard work to make the "Sound of the South" an even better band.

The clubs services went beyond their own band, extending into the recognition of band directors and conductors across the country, for their musical contributions. Kappa Kappa Psi presented the F. Lee Bowling Award to an outstanding junior high band student.

Fall quarter the club provided food and drinks on band trips and they also hosted several of the band parties along with sister sorority Tau Beta Sigma. Winter quarter the organization initiated new brothers. Founders Day was celebrated during Spring quarter with a trip to the beach.

Local Honor Society of Nursing

The local Honor Society of Nursing recognizes students who have superior scholastic achievement, professional leadership potential, and/or marked achievement in the field of nursing. The qualifications for membership include an overall GPA of 2.0 as well as 2.0 in all nursing courses. The local Honor Society of Nursing encompasses the Troy, Dothan, and Montgomery campuses.

On November 11, Dr. Rita Kroska spoke to the Honor Society. Dr. Kroska presently holds the Sorrell Chair of Nursing at Troy. She compared the maternity care in Russia to that in the United States. She also discussed cultural differences of Russia and its effects on health care practices.

An on going project of the Honor Society included providing free tutorial assistance to the junior and sophomore nursing students.

This year the Honor Society has strived to fulfill some requirements for applying for a Sigma Theta Tau charter — the national nursing honor society.

Initiates for membership were honored at the fifth annual spring ceremony. This year it was held on April 27, 1983 at the First Methodist Church in Troy.

The purpose of Phi Beta Lambda is to develop competent, aggressive business leadership and to strengthen the confidence of students in themselves and in their work.

Phi Beta Lambda sponsored a Tax Seminar in cooperation with WTSU-TV.

Sigma Alpha Iota

Sigma Alpha Iota is an international academic music fraternity for women. One has to be a music major or minor in order to be eligible for membership.

Fall quarter the sisters raffled a homecoming dinner for their money-making project. The sisters performed "Movin' On" at the Fall Sing. Jeannie Bubbett, a Delta Zeta alumni and now province president, visited her old chapter during this time. Special meetings were held and times were set up for many of the sisters to meet with her individually. Several teas were held near the end of the quarter to inform interested women about the fraternity.

Winter quarter was pledge quarter. For a pledge project the pledges gave the chapter some beautiful tablecloths for use at formal social functions. The pledges sold Valentine balloons for a money making project. The annual rock-a-thon was held and the sisters and pledges rocked for ten hours. The sisters that were not involved in the performance of the major work ushered the concert.

Spring quarter proved to be a busy one for the sisters. Several of the sisters performed solos or in ensembles at the Pops Concert, and others ushered. The American Composer's Concert was held May 3, 1983, and the sisters joined the brothers of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia for a striking concert. The athletic spirit came out in the sisters in the annual softball game with Tau Beta Sigma. Many of the sisters participated in the production of "Fiddler on the Roof" by performing on stage, in the orchestra, or by ushering. For their money making projects, the sisters sold chances on a tanning kit and sold concessions at the Alabama State Choral Festival. The new officers were inducted and took office during the quarter.

Tau Beta Sigma is an honorary service sorority at Troy State University. The sorority extends the privilege of membership to outstanding band members. Tau Beta Sigma generates a respect and appreciation for band music and performance.

Tau Beta Sigma started work in the summertime with the Sound of the South Freshman Orientation Program. The sisters sent out information letters to each incoming freshman band member concerning band camp.

Fall quarter the sisters provided the famous "notebook" and cookies in the long trips that the band took. They also sponsored the annual Halloween Party with events such as a costume contest, jello throw, and a dance. They also provided refreshments. As a service project, the sisters cleaned the opera department. Tau Beta Sigma was also responsible for the water and Kool-aid served during breaks at band practices.

Winter quarter saw the sisters working as ushers, registrars and go-fers at the Southeastern States Band Clinic. Four new sisters were initiated during the quarter.

At the beginning of Spring quarter several of the sisters went to Oxford, Mississippi to the District VIII Tau Beta Sigma/Kappa Kappa Psi Convention. Troy's chapter was named one of the "Top Five" Chapters in District VIII. The newly elected officers began their terms April 11, 1983.

LDS INSTITUTE

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints provides appropriate programs for all age groups.

The purpose of this organization is to promote spiritual fellowship for the LDS students. They meet weekly to study scripture. There are times when special programs called "firesides" are presented to the members and their friends.

The local LDS congregation will move into a new building within the next few months. The present cottage at 601 Collegedale will then become permanent headquarters for this college-age group.

Association of Nursing Students

During the 1982-83 school year the members of the Association of Nursing Students did many activities.

During Fall quarter they were very busy. The Annual Capping ceremony was held for the Sophomore Nursing students. This was the largest and most impressive in the history of the School of Nursing at Troy State University. The ceremony was held at the First United Methodist Church in Troy and the guest speaker was Dr. Rita Kroska holder of the Anise J. Sorrell Chair in Nursing. Many relatives and friends of the Sophomore Nursing students attended. Refreshments were served and all had a lovely afternoon.

Also during fall quarter they had a Homecoming display to show their school spirit. Unfortunately somebody burned the display the night before the game so no one could enjoy it on Saturday. M & M's were sold to make money to pay for the Capping ceremony.

Spring quarter ANS held a Freshman Reception for those students who were to begin Level II Nursing Courses the next year. At the end of May ANS had a swimming party to relax before finals and the end of the school year.

Angel Flight

Angel Flight is a well known service organization at Troy State and in the Troy Community. All female students at TSU are eligible to become members.

The Angels swung into action fall with their annual Bed Race that raised $300.00 for a local leukemia victim. Montgomery's Mobilized Meals program was next with $315.00 proceeds to the charity through the "Run for Hunger" which was jointly sponsored by Angel Flight and Arnold Air Society.

Pike Manor Nursing Home is a favorite place of visitation by the Angels. A Valentine's Day Party held for the residents was a lot of fun for the girls. Sponsorship for the local March of Dimes Walk-a-thon was a big joint undertaking for Angel Flight and Arnold Air Society.

The Flight's primary function as a support organization for the AFROTC and Arnold Air Society was evident as they helped plan and organize the Fall Dining-Out and Spring Military Ball. The Angels also sponsored Kool-Aid Labs after parade practice, attended the Corps' fall and spring picnics, hosted receptions after awards ceremonies, graduation, and commissioning ceremonies.

Angel Flight had a great year! They were awarded the Samuel E. Anderson Award for the most supportive Flight in Area H and the Cicceoli Joint Operations. They're a super organization and are very proud of their accomplishments.

AFROTC

The mission of the Air Force ROTC is recruit, educate, and commission officer candidates to meet the needs and requirements of the Air Force through a college campus program. Since that time Detachment 017 has been consistently ranked in the top percentile of all ROTC units in the nation. Last year, only six other ROTC units commissioned more 2nd Lieutenants than Troy State.

Regular classroom instructions ranges from the development of airpower, to learning to be an effective leader and manager of people and materials in the Air Force. In addition to this, Cadets attend a Leadership Lab once a week which teaches drill and ceremonies, military customs, and other general Air Force information that will be needed in their future careers.

During the year the Detachment participates in social activities such as picnics and dinners, culminating in a formal Military Ball during the Spring Quarter.

Two programs are offered in AFROTC at TSU. A four year program or a two year advanced program with both programs being open to students attending Troy State. Students can compete for scholarships available which pay for tuition, books, and $100 per month grant.

Circle K

Circle K is the world's collegiate service organization. Circle K is self-governing and self-financing, working independently of, but in cooperation with the Kiwanis Club.

At the beginning of Fall Quarter, members sold year-book covers. Circle K also spent a Saturday eating lunch and playing games with the children of Scott Cottage at the Alabama Baptist Children's Home. During Winter and Spring quarters, members sponsored a canned food drive for Pensions and Securities Office. Annually, the Circle K members participate in Special Olympics in Troy by helping the Washington County Olympians.

The Alabama District Convention in Auburn was attended by seven members.

The highlight of the convention was when President Karen Coad received the Walker Curry Outstanding Alabama Circle K member award.

Wesley Foundation

The Wesley Foundation is the United Methodist Way of sharing the love of Jesus Christ and growing within the Christian faith to prepare today's Christian College students for not only their collegiate experience, but also their future beyond Troy State. Spiritual growth and enrichment is encouraged by worshiping, studying the Word, praying, sharing, and singing.

Sunday nights are the main fellowship featuring a home cooked meal prepared by Wesley Members followed by an inspirational program. Through Bible Study and Prayer and Share, an informal worship of expressing concerns and praises, the members seek to learn more about how to apply more of their Christian beliefs. The Wesley Singers traveled to several churches and shared God's Word through a musical called "Home Again, A Portrait of a Family."

The Wesley also offered other activities for those seeking Christian companionship such as intramural sports, welcome back parties, christian concerts, outdoor outings, and week-end retreats. The Wesley had three retreats this year. One of which was at Panama City with Auburn Wesley and South Alabama Wesley.

The Wesley Foundation extends a warm welcome and is open for fellowship and study all week. All denominations and nondenominations alike are invited to come share Christ with Wesley people. A Wesley member commented, "We are a rainbow and together we can strive to show the world he is alive."

Baptist Student Union

The Baptist Student Union was established to help Christians on their journey through college. Programs were designed to assist students on this journey.

The journey inward lead to Bible studies, Vespers, choir, a Missions Emphasis Week, Youth Director's Workshop, and state and national conventions. This provided preparation to minister to others in Christian fellowship, in choir and drama presentations in churches, missions programs in the nursing home and jail, and a week-long project in Georgia.

The ensemble, Sunshine, enjoyed another year of sharing in churches. Outreach '83 was a week of evangelistic effort in January. The annual Volleyball Marathon was held in February to raise money for summer missions.

From arguing the merits of an unilateral nuclear freeze to debating the values of privacy in relation with other Constitutional rights, the Troy State Debate Team proved successful in the intercollegiate circuit.

During Fall Quarter, the debate team traveled to tournaments sponsored by Mercer University and by Vanderbilt University. At the Vanderbilt University Tournament, the team of Bonita Austin and Andy Martin won an octa-finalist trophy by posting a 5-3 win-loss record in preliminary rounds. Troy's other team Nick Angelo and Asif Jamal, missed breaking into the elimination rounds by one speaker point.

Winter Quarter saw a change in the topic, but more of the same results. Troy State traveled to tournaments hosted by Auburn University, Wingate College in North Carolina, Berry College in Georgia, and the Citadel in South Carolina. At the tournament hosted by Auburn University, the team of Nick Angelo and Danny Cates posted a 5-1 preliminary record with Nick receiving the second place speaker award. In the semifinal round, the team defeated North Alabama on a 3-0 decision.

At Wingate College, Danny and Nick won a quarterfinal trophy after posting a 4-2 record in the preliminary rounds. They posted the same record at the Berry College tournament, but were unable to break into semifinal rounds. At Berry, Asif Jamal and Pat Harris in only their second tournament surprised the University of Florida by giving the top team their only loss.

The victories accumulated over the 1982-83 year by the TSU Debate Team were over such prestigious schools as Bob Jones University, Duke, University of Florida, North Alabama, Tennessee, and Wofford College. Such victories exemplify the academic excellence pursued by Troy's intercollegiate competitions.

TSU Gospel Choir

The TSU Gospel Choir was founded during the fall quarter of 1980. They have grown to a present membership of approximately 70 students.

Under the presidency of Mr. Darrell R. Hayes, the choir traveled to Montgomery, Al. to perform at the First United Methodist Church and to Clio, Al. at the St. Peter's Baptist Church. The choir also performed at various churches in the Troy area. In the past, the choir has received much recognition for performance in Georgia and Florida.

The choir presented their annual on-campus concert May 22 in the Adams Center. Selections included "There is No Failure in God," "When all God's Children Get Together," and "Call Him Up". Ads were sold for the concert bulletin to raise funds for the organization.

The Gospelletes claimed the title of Women's Intramural Volleyball Champions.

Collegiate Singers

The Troy State University Collegiate Singers is a choral group open to all students at T.S.U. The group is directed by Dr. William R. Denison, and presents one concert each quarter.

The beginning of fall quarter took up much of their time with rehearsals for the Fall Sing, November 9, 1983. The program included serious selections as well as popular Broadway tunes. The audience even got in on the action through an audience participation song entitled "Shenandoah".

Winter quarter was a busy one for the Collegiate Singers. Several members of the group auditioned and were chosen to go on tour. The group toured February 13-16 in Georgia and Florida. March 6, the Collegiate Singers performed the major works, Peaceable Kingdom by Randall Thompson and Te Deum by Verdi.

Spring quarter saw the Collegiate Singers working toward the Pop Concert which was held April 21. Several selections were performed by the whole group and several solos and ensembles by individuals.

The 1983 Troy State University Synchronized Swim Team began practicing in September for the annual winter show. Synchronized swimming, commonly referred to as water ballet, requires strength, endurance, flexibility, and exact timing. It combines skills of competitive, swimming, gymnastics, and ballet. Students interested in joining must be at least an intermediate swimmer.

The Trojan Seahorse Synchro Club practiced many hours in preparation for the winter show entitled "The Beat Goes On". The show, performed in late February, featured music from the past to the future. The Charleston, Square dances, Waltzed, Samba's the Swing, Rock and Roll, Beatle's Disco and Punk numbers were performed. The numbers were choreographed by the officers Sidney Sutherland, president, and Susan Sasser, secretary-treasurer. Bill Gauspohl, the vice-president, was the master of ceremonies.

Sigma Alpha Sigma

During this school year, Sigma Alpha Sigma has lived up to its primary goal of serving others. The club strives to participate actively in service projects on the TSU campus and in the surrounding community. Membership is composed primarily of those majoring in Social Work, Rehabilitation, or Social and Rehabilitative Services. Any TSU student who is interested in sharing this ideal is welcome to join in this effort.

A variety of activities gained the attention of the club membership. The reigning Miss Wheelchair America who is from Alabama was hosted by the club while she visited the campus and the Troy area. Individual members did volunteer work in social service areas including helping with the distribution of food to needy persons, visiting those living in nursing homes, sponsoring a party for the residents of Pike Manor Nursing Home during National Nursing Home Week and participating in the organization of a beauty pageant at Pike Manor. In addition, the club sponsored its first annual Womanless Beauty Pageant on campus which was tremendous fun. This was the kickoff effort for the club to raise funds for a scholarship to be offered to a major in the Department of Human Services. This scholarship will be named in honor of Ms. Kim Lunsford and will eventually be awarded to those who demonstrate the desire and skill to work with those needing rehabilitative services.

The club is open to all university students interested regardless of their physical condition. The club will also provide step by step training and instructions including diet for those who are interested.

The club is designed to help each individual develop his or her potential to the fullest in all aspects.

Student Government Association

President
Stacy Krebs

"It is wonderful to feel as though you have had a part in making many college careers more fulfilling and at the same time experiencing 150% of what your own college career can be. I hope our administration has paved the way through our example, for continued cooperation among student and administrators, constructive student input and encouragement of students in civic participation.

The Student Government provides a direct link between students and the administration at TSU. By using the democratic, republic process the SGA is able to present the views of the students.

Under the leadership of President Stacy Krebs, the SGA took on several new student centered projects. The establishment of "Troy Day" was one of these new areas.

This local holiday was created to recognize the city of Troy and their work in helping make Troy State what it is today. The SGA also took under its wing the co-sponsorship of a campus wide band dance. Another first was the questionnaire that Miss Krebs staff circulated for campus input on an informal basis. And beginning in 1983 the SGA became the yearly donator of the Miss TSU crown.

In addition to the above firsts, the 1983 SGA launched a program designed to teach responsible drinking without a moral lesson. This was all part of a state-wide Alcohol Awareness Program. The SGA actively supported a resolution to create a political science major at TSU. Also, a student committee was selected to work as a liaison between the SGA food service and the students.

The SGA's used textbook exchange continued to thrive under the 1983 leadership and once again the SGA sponsored the Homecoming Queen. With many new ideas and the assertiveness to go along with them the SGA was able to serve the student body in an efficient, low-key manner.

"Anyone who wants to be a leader can be (one) if they are just given the right opportunities. For many the SGA is that opportunity."

The Art Guild

Supporting the arts at Troy State University is the Art Guild, an organization open to all art majors, minors and patrons. The club strives to support student artists by sponsoring several exhibits throughout the year. The Spring Art Show is usually the major project. However, this year, the club directed its energies, spring quarter, to the Jean Lake Memorial Art Show. This was a professional show supported by the Troy City Arts Council.

Fall quarter was a time of recruiting new members and getting new officers oriented. The Art Guild was proud to sponsor Hillary Hallford in the Homecoming Pageant and a Halloween party was held to give the artist a chance to be creative in costume design and cooking.

During Winter and Spring quarter, several shows were set up in Kilby Gallery.

This year the ACUB provided students with exciting entertainment! The Big Names were Juice Newton, Bob Dubac, Atlanta Rhythm Section, and Fire Fall.

Annual events included the College Bowl Tournament and the May Day Carnival this spring which featured "September". Family Fued has been added to the list of annual events.

The Manhattan Rhythm Kings took us through music of the ages Winter Quarter.

The Tropolitan

The Tropolitan, a student-university community newspaper at Troy State University, seeks to inform the students, faculty, administration and staff of campus events. The Tropolitan invites all readers to contribute letters and suggestions.

The paper was published every Wednesday of fall, winter and spring quarters, excluding the week before and of final examinations. All writing, editing, layout, pasteup and selling of advertising was done by students at TSU.

The Tropolitan provided practical experience for the student journalists, who got an introduction to news reporting, editing, photography and mechanical aspects of the newspaper.

Achievements in the past year included acquiring two video display terminals which allowed the staff members to typeset copy and headlines. The number of pages of the paper increased from eight to twelve or more. Two alumni issues were produced and distributed to 34,000 alumni and students. Spring quarter marked a "first" for the Tropolitan; the front page on April 27, 1983, featured a color picture for the first time in the newspaper's history.

Copy was typeset by TSU typesetters. Mr. Jim Sellers served as advisor.

Editor Leslie Braman single handedly designed and edited the greek section in addition to designing many organization layouts and of course overseeing the entire publication. Associate editor Ray Bendall designed and edited the campus life and features sections. Jeff Johnston, was not only business manager but also the sports editor. Susan Russell who served as an associate editor moved from section to section wherever needed and she also developed the opening theme. Advisor Jacqueline Smith once again yielded her support in all the staff's endeavors.

TSU's yearbook staff of 1983 was a small one. Throughout the year, the different sections of the book were juggled among the core of leadership as their schedules permitted. There were times when the staff was late for deadlines, behind on scheduling photographs and plagued with undependable "help" from volunteers. But despite the problems, the staff seemed to know intuitively that this book had a statement to make. This faith is what kept the staff going, through the thick and thin.

"The Sound's In Town"

As the drum major calls for attention and signals the members onto the field, when the flash of the instruments is seen and the deafening notes of the fanfare are heard, you know . . . "The Sound's in town!"

The T.S.U. "Sound of the South" has been the exhibition band in many marching contests this year. During the Heart of Dixie Festival in Prattville, the Southeastern Marching Festival in Troy, and the Southland Marching Festival in Enterprise, the younger musicians were dazzled and amazed by the "Sound's" performance. At the football games, the Troy State Band played everything from country, to rock-and-roll, to the great American classics of "Gershwin". Also, the postgame show consists of the show tunes from halftime plus many hymns, marches, jazz, and patriotic songs for the large crowd.

The many hours of practicing that are heard campus-wide are not disrupted by the heat of the summer nor the bitter cold of the winter. The band has marched in several parades including the Troy State Appreciation Day Parade and Torch Light Parade at Homecoming. Best of all, when we graduate, we can proudly say, "I was in the Troy State University 'Sound of the South' Marching Band!"

Panhellenic Council

The word "Pan-Hellenic" is derived from the Greek, meaning "all-Greek". The Troy State University Panhellenic Association, consisting of eight sororities, strives to uphold universal panhellenic (all Greek) ideals. Each sorority is also very individualized.

Panhellenic serves as a coordinating body. Its actions evidence a spirit of cooperation by both collegiate and alumnae members as all sororities work together. Cooperation for furthering Greek life is the ideal that guides Panhellenic activity.

Sororities offer leadership opportunities, scholastic encouragement, and service responsibilities as well as life-long friendship. Sorority life means so much to those who are a part of it. Panhellenic is more than a Greek system at Troy State University. In fact, it becomes a way of life.

Officers included Dimple Address, Secretary; Maria Mendoza, First Vice-President; Beth Patton, Treasurer; Kim Holman, Second Vice-President; Cindy Willis, President. Interfraternity Council

The Interfraternity Council provides a means for the fraternities on campus to unite for the purpose of discussing questions of mutual interest. It also serves as the law governing body for all fraternities.

The Interfraternity Council seeks to strengthen the Greek System, so that all Greeks will grow in size and will develop a mature, responsible character as a fraternal organization which is respectful of each individual Greek fraternity/sorority as well as Troy State University communities.

The Iota Kappa chapter of the Chi Omega fraternity was founded Feb. 19, 1977 on Troy State University's main campus. Since then, the chapter has grown, capturing major titles all around campus. Chi Omegas are majorettes in the Sound of the South Marching Band, little sisters and sweethearts to the campus fraternities, University Dancers, beauty pageant winners, writers for The Tropicitan, honor society members and senators in the Student Government Association.

The Chi Omega's host an "Apple Polishing" annually to establish good relations with faculty members and help them to become familiar with the Greek system. They also performed a valuable service project for the community by helping elderly citizens with household and yard work.

Delta Kappa Epsilon

In the seven years Delta Kappa Epsilon has been on campus, the Dekes have achieved a long list of accomplishments. The biggest is their outstanding academic success. The Deke house displays many scholarship trophies signifying their academic prowess. However, the Dekes' success is not limited to the classroom as they have scored victory after victory on the athletic fields. As athletes, the Dekes are always competitive in the fraternity league and are frequent visitors to the intramurals play-offs. The Dekes have struck a delicate balance between quality sports teams while maintaining high scholastic standards.

The standards of the Dekes social life are fast and furious. The Fall quarter is packed with the biggest rush parties of the year and the exclusive Deke Funeral Party. Winter Formal and the inevitable week-end parties highlight Winter quarter. Spring brings the sunshine and the sunshine brings the Mud-Slide in the backyard and the week-end of pandemonium that is Beach Party.

The parties, athletics, and scholastics are all results of the brothers' hard work and enthusiasm. The brothers of Delta Kappa Epsilon pride themselves on being well rounded individuals. The support from the Little Sisters is immeasurable and they are undoubtedly some of the finest young women on campus. The Deke Advisors, Mr. Merrill Bankster and Mr. Glynn Eiland continue to contribute their talents and efforts to making DKE the outstanding fraternity it is. The Dekes will continue in the fine tradition that is DEKE!

On the night of January 5, 1911 Kappa Alpha Psi incorporated a dream of their most revered founder, Elder Watson Diggs, at Indiana University. The Theta Phi Chapter was chartered in November of 1976 at Troy State University.

The fraternity's ultimate existence stems from the concept of Achievement. The brothers of Theta Phi strive to achieve in every aspect of college life, academics, athletics, and many other extra-curricular campus activities.

Kappa Alpha Psi is a social fraternity, which also lends itself to community service. During the past year the brothers of Theta Phi sponsored tutorial services for the Children's Home, and also designed a community service program to aid the elderly citizens of Troy. Lambda Chi Alpha

The Sigma Tau Chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha had a great 1982-83 school year. During Winter quarter, the chapter played host for the Dixie Conclave, an annual regional meeting that was attended by Lambdas from across the Southeast. The event, which included seminars, meetings and a band party, was a huge success.

Lambda Chi Alpha is still the only fraternity at Troy State which actively uses the innovative "associate member" system. New members are not termed pledges, and have the same rights in chapter matters as active members.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

The brothers of The Alabama Epsilon chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon have enjoyed a very prosperous year during the 1982-83 school session.

Things got off to a good start during fall quarter with a very successful rush and the winning of the scholastic trophy for the highest grade point average for the quarter.

Winter quarter brought the yearly "Sexy Legs Week" in which SAE raised nearly one thousand dollars for the Muscular Dystrophy Association by dribbling a basketball from the state capitol in Montgomery to the steps of Bibb Graves Hall. The week came to an end with a band party at the armory. Success continued on through spring quarter with Greek Week when brother Don Rasdall won the "Spirit of Greek" award and little sister Jackie Young won the title of Miss Venus.

Sigma Chi

In only eight years, the Eta Phi Chapter has grown from an aspiring seven colony brothers to today's fifty chapter members.

Sigma Chi made its mark on the 1982-83 school calendar in many ways: eleven brothers were elected to senate positions in Student Government Association; for the second consecutive year, Brother Glenn Shaull has served as president of the Interfraternity Council.

Miss Juaneysa Wilkins, a Little Sigma, served as 1982 Miss Troy State University. Miss Sue Horvath, the 1983 Sweetheart of Sigma Chi, was first runner-up in the Homecoming Queen elections.

They were proud to initiate the Fall Quarter Pledge Class with the highest grade point average of any fraternity pledge class on campus.

Theta Chi

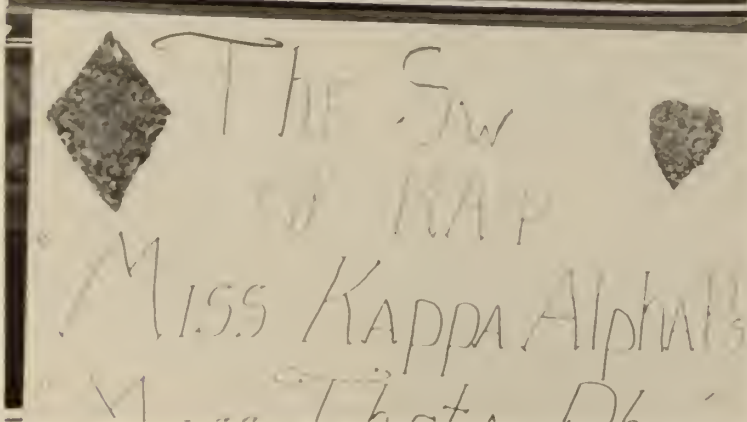

Theta Chi was the first fraternity to be chartered at T.S.U. in April of 1966. Since that time, Theta Chi has stood for brotherhood and working together for a common purpose. This past year was no exception. The brotherhood along with the guidance from alumni brothers and Grand Chapter members, have worked together to make our chapter flourish.

The past year saw brothers active in IFC offices and some initiated into honor societies. Theta Chi's homecoming celebration was the best in recent memory, as well as our second annual "Winter Feast" party. Spring, of course, brought another great Dream Girl Formal and beach party. Additions to the past year were the first annual Caveman Party sponsored by the Daughters of the Crossed Swords and Spring Barbeque Party for alumni brothers. Once again Theta Chi is on the move at T.S.U.!

TSU Baseball Places 11th In The Nation

Troy State's 1983 baseball season was a good one, even though it was not up to usual Trojan standards. The season ended in the semi-final round of the NCAA Division II Central Region Tournament when the Trojans lost a pair of one run ball games, 5-4 to eventual Region winner Jacksonville State, and 9-8 to Wright State of Dayton, Ohio. The Trojans were 11th in the final NCAA Division II poll.

The 1983 Trojans were a hitting ball club. The school record for the team batting average was broken, as Troy hit .335 as a team. The 1978 record of 50 homers was also smashed, as 10 different players combined for 63 round rippers on the season.

Keith Bragg hit .404 and launched 11 homers en route to taking first-team all-GSC honors, along with second baseman Jerry Briggs, who hit .345 and batted in 40 runs. Both players also made the All-Central Region first team. Ovie Jiminez, senior outfielder, wound up hitting .380 with 40 RBI and 10 homers, and set a school record with hits in 19 consecutive games, to win second-team all-region honors.

Trojan Coach Chase Riddle picked up his 150th win in just five seasons at TSU, a 19-6 thrashing of Columbus College at Columbus, and Troy State finished its season ranked 11th in the NCAA Division II Polls.

Basketball

a new tradition . . .

When the 1982-83 basketball season came to a close, the Trojans wound up at 15-13 on the year and fourth in the Gulf South Conference. A series of close losses late in the season took the Trojans out of the conference race, and while that was certainly a cause for disappointment, there was still plenty to be happy about in retrospect.

"Our only goal this season," said first year head coach Don Maistri, "Was to win back the respect of the people in our league. We did that, plus, I think we worried the devil out of them."

It was Troy's first winning season since 1976-77, and the best year since 1975-76. The schedule was no piece of cake either. The Trojans beat five teams that were nationally ranked in the course of the season. Troy won its first tournament championship (Holiday World in Orlando, FL) since the 1960's. Troy State beat North Alabama twice this year, the first time that's happened since 1968. TSU doubled up on Delta State for the first time since 1976-77. And the victory over Jacksonville State at Troy was the first since 1979-80.

But perhaps the brightest star in the TSU basketball crown this season was the revived interest in basketball, the tremendous crowds (over 2000 per game, a new school record).

Southern Pride

Pride is not uniquely Southern, we just have more of it."

1983 Basketball at TSU was, as the saying goes, a whole new ballgame!" Much time and planning went into the idea of doing a Globetrotter-type warm up and the result was a fabulous showtime that aroused school spirit and the kind of pride one only finds in the South.

New school records for attendance were set during the 1983 season. "We had the best crowd, the best pep band, and the best national anthem singer in the Gulf South Conference," said Maestri. "So many people contributed their time and talents, and got involved in the program, our players had to respond with pride.

Looking back on the 1982-83 basketball season, one can't help but think of "Showtime". Showtime consisted of the flashy festivities and pre-game shows that surrounded home games during the season. It also gave the team and the university a new identity.

"Without a doubt we had the most enthusiastic, loyal support from our fans I've ever seen. The entertainment, the music by our pep band, the whole showtime package was something that we think appealed to every sort of fan," said Head Coach Don Maestri.

"I don't mind saying, we were shooting in the dark when we began trying to put the show together," said Maestri. "It got bigger than we ever dreamed it would. We have many people to thank for that" (These included) "all the individuals who helped make this season something special, the people of Troy and our student body."

Joyce Sorrell has been a prominent figure in Women's Athletics for over ten years. She finished her eighth season as head basketball coach at TSU, and her seventh as Coordinator of Women's Athletics. Coach Sorrell has made TSU a leader among small colleges in the state for the past six years.

Sorrell joined the Troy State Staff in 1968 as an instructor in the Department of Health and Physical Education. She played a key role in the development of the women's extramural program, coaching volleyball, basketball and tennis, the forerunner of today's intercollegiate women's team.

She received a bachelor of science degree in education from the University of Tennessee at Martin in 1967. In 1968, Sorrell completed requirements for a master's degree from the University of Tennessee of Knoxville.

Lady Trojans compete against "Basketball Powers" in the GSC.

The 1982-83 edition of the Lady Trojans Basketball Team was a young but experienced team. Many of the returning players were sophomores, who gained experience through playing time as freshmen.

The team was led by senior point Val Privett, senior forward Nancy Anderson and senior guard Teresa McGowan. Four returning players, the "Super Sophs" Ginger Johnson, Janice Moore, Brenda Huff, and Gail Hollis; also added strength to this year's squad. All four returned with more confidence and playing ability.

Newcomers this year included Tammy Ruffian and Rhonda Price. These two added more dimension to the offensive game plan. Mary Blaydes, Grace Peay, Angela Moore, and Cathy Perry joined the team and added depth at their positions.

Offensively, the Lady Trojans worked hard during the early season to improve their offensive performance of last year. The 1982-83 season consisted of a running offense. Coach Sorrell believed in this philosophy in order to set up a more potent attack.

Defensively, the Lady Trojans ran a multiple scheme defense. This multiple scheme defense offset their opponent's offensive game.

This was a testing season for the ladies. They faced a very rigorous schedule, which included teams that were considered "Basketball Powers" in the Gulf South Conference. "The schedule was designed that way, to prime the ladies for the GSC Tournament in March," said Head Coach Joyce Sorrell.

Having held on to their fan given name, "The Cardiac Kids," this year's volleyball team was a young and competitive one. The 1982 Women's Volleyball team had to adjust to eight freshmen who were not accustomed to college play. Even though the girls did not have a winning season they grew mentally and physically.

According to Coach Ginger Sprague, this year's team was another strong, but inexperienced group of young women, whose attitudes were excellent. These ladies exhibited a great deal of desire and competitiveness during the season.

The Lady Trojans placed in Gulf South Conference for the first time with a brutal, round robin capping of the season. They also traveled to the prestigious Florida Southern Tournament in Lakeland, Florida, where they met some of the stiffest competition in the South. Such as FSC, Florida International and University of Central Florida.

The Lady Trojans had four returning players; Molly Baker, Katie Brown, Rainee Porsch, and Patty Schmitz. Eight new freshmen on the team included Malinda Ashcraft, Leah Borie, Verna March, Lisa Pridgen, Lori Robertson, Zella Robinson, Brenda Sirmon, and Johnnie Smith. Three young ladies made the GSC All Conference Team. They were juniors Molly Baker, Patty Schmitz and sophomore Katie Brown. Throughout the season the squad provided fine entertainment to all who supported them.

Track: an Individual Sport

Regardless of Obvious Team Effort

Track has always been known as an individual sport regardless of obvious team efforts, said Head Track Coach Charles Oliver. He also said that the coaching approach for the season was one of "working toward individuality." "We felt that if we could get each individual to perform to his or her potential, then we would come together as a team when the points were added together", Oliver said.

His approach seem to work well for the Trojans because they won the Troy Relays. In one meet the Trojans finished second to Auburn.

The Trojans also won their fifth Gulf South Conference crown by 47 points. The men also broke two school records during the 1982-83 season. While the men were breaking track records, the Lady Trojans showed their ability, by breaking ten school records.

Eight individuals qualified to participate in the national meet, to be held at Cape Girardeau, Missouri. Among these were Kenneth Baldwin, Ronnie Clark, Rodney Franklin, Stanley Garrett, Timothy Reese, Milton Westry, Tina Kroll, and Countess Woody.

There were eleven All Conference selections, nine of which will be returning lettermen. The eleven selections were Ron Clark, Edward Bell, Jeff Weitenbeck, Stanley Garrett, Kenneth Baldwin, Rodney Franklin, Tim Reese, Thomas Patterson, Ron Davis, Bonnie Hill and Al Reid. All will return in the fall except for Ron Clark and Bonnie Hill.

Sheehan comments on Men's Cross Country

The 1982 men's cross country season was a productive one for TSU, yielding the 9th straight GSC title and 4th Regional title. In 1983 the Trojans faced their most ambitious schedule, in hopes of being more competitive for the NCAA Division II National Championships in St. Cloud Minnesota on November 14th. Auburn, Florida, Florida State, Georgia, Western Kentucky, and several other top notch Division I teams were among the rivals of Troy in the 1982 season. Troy State showed that they could be competitive with the best of them. Only the snow and cold of St. Cloud, where the Trojans finished 14 out of the 16 national finalist teams, could put a damper on the 1982 season.

There were many bright spots in the 1982 schedule, but none as bright as sophomore sensation Jeff Weitenbeck. Jeff, TSU's 10k school record holder and GSC 10K and 5K champion on the track in 1982. He was TSU's most consistent and durable performer throughout the cross country schedule. Jeff finished as the first TSU performer in every meet on the schedule, including: a win and course record at the TSU Invitational, an impressive second place overall finish at the Notre Dame Institutional Meet, and the GSC Southeast Regional Meet. Only an off day at Nationals prevented Jeff from earning the national recognition he truly deserves.

Two other outstanding performers for the Trojans were all GSC standouts Glen Banker, senior-captain, and freshman Kendall Gooch. Banker, who earned his third all GSC distinction, was a consistent hard working performer, who despite injury ran his best races for Troy State when they counted the most, at the conference and national meets. As a captain, Glen Banker was an inspiration to his teammates as a performer and a leader.

Freshman Kendall Gooch was one of the most pleasant surprises in 1983, as the number three runner for TSU in his rookie season. Gooch a no holds barred and daring frontrunner, is one of TSU's brightest promises for the future for his speed, durability, and toughness. Despite his inexperience, Gooch was an all GSC selection for his 5th place finish in the 1982 Conference meet.

Our hopes for 1983 loom even brighter, as only Banker will be missed from the 1982 GSC and Regional Championship Team. Junior Manny Socarras Sophomore Ricky Daniel, junior Thomas Patterson and freshman Kurt Walder will return one year wiser and stronger in 1983. TSU appears to be an even stronger force at the conference, regional, and national level in the future.

Women's Cross Country An Overview

In the first official year of their cross country program, the Lady Trojans Cross Country Team made an obvious impression. With a largely freshmen-sophomore squad, the TSU women faced an ambitious schedule, facing the best SE Conference schools. In their nine week season, the TSU women faced Division I ranked Auburn, Florida, Florida State, LSU, Alabama, and Georgia, as well as the best of Division II women's competition. Despite their inexperience and tough schedule, the Lady Trojans remained competitive in every meet, and got stronger as the season progressed. Toughened by the best that the southeast could throw at them in Division I, the TSU women dominated their conference meet, and ran away with the NCAA Division II meet on Oct. 30. In the conference, the TSU women placed sixth in the meet's top thirteen, while putting the same six in the region's top thirty-five. Only the windy, cold (10 degree) and snowcovered (11" average depth) course at Nationals in St. Cloud, Minnesota could dampen the Lady Trojans season, where they finished 11th in the 11 teams qualifying field. But their youth and enthusiasm bode well for the 1982, and they seek to be more competitive in Division I and II competition in the future.

Trojan Golf Gulf South Conference Champions

An impressive season of steady improvement

The 1982-83 season was considered a successful one for several reasons. First the Trojans captured the Alabama Intercollegiate Championship in early March of 1983. By doing so they began thinking of a successful defense for the GSC Championship. In early Spring the squad was anything but a solid unit capable of winning the GSC, but with hard work and determination the top players began to sense possibilities of a good year. Week by week and tournament by tournament the men put together a string of impressive finishes. The week before the GSC, the team played well in the S.E.

Collegiate in Valdosta, Georgia. In finishing second in this regional event the team gained more confidence in their abilities as a team. Then with their 18-stroke victory in the Gulf South Conference at Jacksonville State their confidence level was probably at its highest. Along with their bid for the teams ninth consecutive trip to Nationals and the recent GSC win the teams attention turned to a chance, to bring home the "Gold" from West Virginia. At no time were the Trojans lower than second place in the National Tournament, and after the completion of the second round they possessed a seven shot lead on the field. At tournament's end they found themselves in a solid second place. An impressive completion of a season of steady improvement.

Looking back on the 1982-83 season, Head Coach Mike Griffin had the following remarks. "Personally I feel very good for these young men who competed for us this season.

They took on a challenge and managed to, on more than one occasion find themselves in the winning spot. Although they were unable to pull off the National Championship this was the highest finish in the NCAA since our runner-up finish in 1978, and that is something to be very proud of."

Women's Golf

The 1982-83 season was a very good one for the Lady Trojan Golf Team. They started out the season knowing that there was no longer a AIAW Division II Championship, so they had to perform well in order to receive an invitation to the NCAA National Championship. The NCAA does not recognize any Division II National Championship Teams, which meant they had to compete on a Division I level with all of the National powers. Considering what they were up against, they had a very good season. The Lady Trojans finished 35th in the Nation out of 96 colleges and universities.

Only one other Division II school finished in front of the Ladies, and that was by a margin of one stroke.

The NCAA did not take any one team from Division II, but rather five individuals. Debbie Hancock received an invitation to compete as an individual at the University of Georgia in Athens, in the NCAA Women's Golf National Championship. Her 79.38 stroke average for the year placed her 81st out of the 745 women collegiate golfers in the Nation. Jenny Holder was selected as the 2nd alternate for Nationals. Her 80.24 stroke per round average placed her 143 in the long list of talented players. Both Hancock and Holder, along with Ann Spooner and Cathy Tatum were selected as AIAW Division II All-American last year.

"Overall, we had a fantastic fall season, a bad winter tournament, and a mediocre spring season. Although we will be losing a great player in Ann Spooner, and a team leader in Jone Mills to graduation. I look forward to great things from this team next year. We have done very well with recruiting, and the team we will have next year will be among the strongest ever", said Head Coach Chris Force.

Women's Softball

The Lady Trojan softball team under the direction of Coach Ginger Sprague, ended the 1983 season looking forward to the next season, after an enthusiastic first year. Playing a total of only 13 games the Lady Trojan competed against teams that were much more experienced, due to the fact that some of them played 30 to 40 games during the season.

The TSU team posted a 2-4 season record, excluding tournaments, having lost two games to the University of West Florida and splitting twice with Columbus College. The Ladies also made quite a respectable showing at a Montgomery Tournament.

The Lady Trojans then traveled to Florence for the GSC Tournament where for two days the team sat in their hotel room watching it rain. The tournament finally began in cold winds and mud, with the ladies losing their opening game to the eventual champions U.N.A. 9-3. The second game became another of the girls numerous marathons, with Mississippi College edging Troy out in extra innings, 8-7.

An encouraging note came at the end of the season when Senior Rainee Porsch and Junior Patty Schmitz were selected to the first All GSC Women's Softball team. Batting .415 and .392 respectively, Porsch ended the season leading the team with four home runs.

With good talent returning on the team and the power hitting recruits Sprague has lined up for the 1984 season, the Ladies should have a strong second season.

SPORTSMANSHIP

The Name Of the Game

In college football, winning is very important to the players, coaches and fans. Without the desire to win there would be no reason to keep score. Some people feel that winning should be achieved at all cost; however at TSU sportsmanship plays an important part in college football. Football demands a combination of physical skill and strength, an alert mind, enthusiasm, and teamwork. These represent accomplishment for which a person must work to become skillful.

Many friendships are formed through football. The ability to get along with each other receives one of its greatest tests in sports competition. Sportsmanship demands honesty, fair play, cooperation, respect for authority and rules, acceptance of responsibility and respect for others. The true sportsman plays hard to win, but respects his opponent and accepts defeat gracefully. That is why sportsmanship is "Big Time" at TSU.

Bowling

But 1982 Is History...

The year 1982 saw Troy State finish 2-10 overall, and seventh in the Gulf South Conference.

The team was a young one — only seven seniors were on the roster, but the underclassmen were seasoned by game experience and off-season workouts spawned optimism. The 1982 Trojans were a dedicated unit dead set on putting the program among the league's elite.

During a year when the famous Crimson Tide of Alabama experienced a less than perfect season, the fans of TSU learned that some seasons are better left to history.

Bradshaw Resigns After Seven Years Of Service

After his seventh season as the Troy State football helmsman, Charlie Bradshaw resigned.

Charlie Bradshaw's Trojan football teams have posted a 40-27-2 cumulative win-loss record. In Bradshaw's first season, 1976, Troy put together a 8-1-1 season, a sixth place finish in the NCAA Division II Poll and a Gulf South Conference Championship. Against GSC opponents, Troy is 29-11-1 for Bradshaw years.

Bradshaw has surely been influenced by Paul Bryant. He was first associated with the "Bear" when he played football under Bryant at the University of Kentucky in 1942. In 1949, he received his degree from the University of Kentucky, and a year later launched his coaching career at Lanier High, as an assistant. He spent four years at Lanier before returning to Kentucky as an assistant to Bryant. He followed Bryant to the University of Alabama in 1958.

Bradshaw was an assistant with the Crimson Tide until 1962, when he was called back to Kentucky as head coach. He served as Kentucky's head man for six years, during which time he was honored as UPI's "Coach of the Week" twice in 1964, and as AP's "Coach of the Year" in 1965.

He resigned his position at Kentucky in 1969, and during the following years served on the coaching staffs at Texas A&M and Vanderbilt, until moving to Troy.

In the spring quarter of 1982 fourteen people were chosen as cheerleaders for the 1982-83 school year. The cheerleaders were selected on their ability to do double stunts, cheers, jumps and pom-pom routines, as well as their enthusiasm.

The cheerleaders attended the NCA Cheerleader Camp in Knoxville, TN, during the summer of '82. When they returned to Troy, they brought back with them many awards.

Fall quarter marked the beginning of daily practices and a busy schedule. The cheerleaders continued their busy schedule when they returned for the winter quarter, by cheering at the basketball games. Tryouts were held for three open positions on the team. Mike Maraard, Greg Chanler, and Jerry Jackson filled the open positions to round out the squad for the winter quarter.

Sorrell

School of Business and Commerce

For many years, the Sorrell School of Business and Commerce was known as the Business Department — a carryover from the period when the University was Troy State Teachers College. In 1971, the School of Business and Commerce was formally established. Ten years later, in June 1981, the Sorrell School of Business and Commerce came into being. The school was named in honor of the late Jeff Sorrell, a prominent local businessman who bequeathed the University, particularly the School of Business and Commerce, a substantial sum upon his death.

The basic objective of the Sorrell School of Business and Commerce, comprising over one-third of the total enrollment of the University, is to provide the best possible education for students — a quality education to enable them to become more productive and better citizens. Personal attention is emphasized; each student has an academic advisor from the School of Business. Good teaching is stressed.

Further, the educational philosophy of the school is strongly embedded in the free enterprise approach to business. The American political system with its democratic ideals, its emphasis upon individualism, and its reliance upon people has been supported by the Sorrell School of Business and Commerce and by the private enterprise system. The Faculty of the Sorrell School of Business and Commerce adheres to the principles and virtues of this system.

School Of Fine Arts

Founded in 1971 with the divisions of music, visual arts and speech/dramatic arts, the Troy State University School of Fine Arts is designed to stimulate academic and artistic excellence within a liberal art setting. The School of Fine Arts reinforces the overall objectives of the university and places particular emphasis on developing in students an increasing appreciation and enjoyment of the arts as a medium of rich personal satisfaction by providing a variety of experiences based on needs, interests and capacities.

The school provides an opportunity for the entire student body to experience the richness of our cultural heritage through concerts performed by members of the "Sound of the South" Band, operas, operettas and musical comedy performed by Opera Workshop participants, visual arts exhibits sponsored by the Department of Arts and Classics, and a broad range of dramatic literature brought to life on the stage by the University Playmakers.

College of Special Programs

The College of Special Programs was established August 1, 1981. It is comprised of all off-campus regions, branches, and educational locations. These are located at Bay Minette and Phenix City, Alabama, the Florida region (Eglin AFB, Hurlburt Field, Pensacola NAS, and Whiting Field), Ft. Benning and Moody AFB, Georgia, and on thirty military bases in Europe and Turkey. The campuses at Dothan and Montgomery are not in the College of Special Programs because they are candidates for separate accreditation.

The students at off-campus locations are usually older than those on the main campus and classes are normally scheduled for evenings and other off-duty hours. Also, most of the students have full-time occupations outside the classroom.

During a typical academic quarter, more than 3,000 students are enrolled in undergraduate programs and approximately 1,700 students are in graduate programs. Typically, more than 3,000 faculty members are involved.

The most common academic programs offered at the College of Special Programs are business, management, international relations, personnel management, and criminal justice.

The College is administered by Dean Nolan Hatcher who is assisted by Mrs. Barbara David, the Director of Education Service, and Dr. Ralph Taylor, European Liaison Officer.

The University was authorized by the State Board of Education to offer the masters degree in 1958. In 1978, the administration organized all graduate education into a Graduate School with programs leading to advanced degrees in the Arts and Sciences, Business and Commerce, and in Education.

The School is part of the centralized supervisory system which is responsible for the thousands of graduate students from Oslo, Norway to Fort Walton Beach, Florida. There are 34 European locations on military bases in West Germany, England, Holland, Turkey, Norway, Greece, Italy, Spain and the Isle of Crete. The School has extension graduate education programs in Florida and Georgia in addition to those programs within the State of Alabama at Troy, Dothan, Fort Rucker, Montgomery, Bay Minette, and Phenix City.

Currently, graduate degrees are offered in International Relations, Public Administration, Business, Management, Personnel Management, Computer and Information Sciences, and Counseling and Human Development, Foundations of Education Criminal Justice, Elementary Education, Early Childhood Education, Special Education, Adult Education and several other teaching areas of Secondary Education.

The Graduate Schools purpose fits nicely in the University's philosophy which is to provide educational opportunities for the people of the state of Alabama as well as for military personnel serving their country.

Dr. Rudi Argenti

From a modest beginning in 1972, the Hall School of Journalism has become the fastest-growing journalism program in the state.

Frequent seminars and the annual Spring Symposium sponsored by the School of Journalism have brought many outstanding journalists to the campus. These seminars and symposiums are a regular part of a journalism program designed to benefit the students. Professionals from every realm of journalism offer the students many viewpoints and the opportunity to meet possible employers.

School of Nursing

The TSU School of Nursing, under the administration of Dr. Patricia L. Starck, Professor of Nursing and Dean, School of Nursing, is a multi-dimensional system of nursing education with four units, giving the student an option in type and location of program. The units are: Associate of Science in Nursing Degree program and the Bachelor of Science in Nursing Degree program in Troy with outreach courses in Montgomery and Dothan. In addition to beginning freshmen, both programs offer advanced placement opportunities for LPN's and RN's as well as for transfer students.

The selection of the program is based on individual learner needs. Persons who select the Associate of Science in Nursing Program may complete the course of studies in seven sequential quarters and begin the practice of nursing. For associate degree nurses, who wish, educational mobility opportunities are available which lead to the Bachelor of Science Degree in Nursing.

Learners who elect to pursue the basic Bachelor of Science Degree in Nursing proceed from a foundation of science and arts which lead to practice in a variety of professional settings. The Bachelor of Science in Nursing Degree also prepares the graduate for opportunities to pursue graduate education. Graduates of the Associate and Bachelor's Degree Programs are eligible to apply to write the State Board of Nursing Examination to become registered nurses.

The Troy State University School of Nursing utilizes a variety of clinical facilities for learning experiences. Hospitals, clinics, nursery schools, health departments and nursing homes are examples of agencies where students practice.

Students in the School of Nursing participate in extra curricular activities on campus. In addition, nursing students are involved in many community service projects such as health fairs, blood pressure screening clinics, blood drives, and disaster drills.

Richard Roy Tew was employed by Troy State University in 1964. He began as a carpenter and then became a carpenter foreman. In 1970, he was made Foreman of Grounds Crew. He remained in this position until his retirement in 1982. While grounds chairman, Tew maintained a well-manicured campus that many considered the best kept campus in the state of Alabama.

Mr. Tew also travelled with the collegiate singers as their equipment and setup man for several years. He was always there to help set up such big events as homecoming and big name entertainment shows.

Troy State University was saddened by his death on March 13, 1983. He was a loyal and conscientious worker. Mr. Tew was one of those unique individuals that took great pride in all that he did. In keeping with the 1983 Palladium theme of Southern Pride we commemorate this man's faithful support of Troy State University.

Ingalls Award

Dr. Garrett

Dr. Stephen G. Garrett, Associate Professor of Marketing in Troy State University's Sorrell School of Business and Commerce, was awarded the highest honor a Troy State University faculty member can receive during the 1983 Honors Day ceremonies.

Garrott was given the Ingalls Award, an honor given annually by the Ingalls Foundation of Birmingham, a non-profit organization which supports quality teaching in colleges and universities.

The award provides students an opportunity to show their appreciation for outstanding teaching in colleges and universities and carries with it a $1,000 check and an appropriate plaque.

Dr. Garrott has been with the university since 1971. He obtained his B.S. and M.B.A. at Murray State University and earned a doctorate from the University of Arkansas in 1979. His wife, Priscilla, is also an instructor of business education on the TSU staff.

"The university is pleased that Dr. Garrott was selected to receive this high honor," Dr. Edward F. Barnett, Vice President for Academic Affairs said. "We appreciate the high quality of our faculty and Dr. Garrott symbolizes the fact that our students appreciate outstanding effort."

Dr. Max Rafferty

A Man of Conviction

Known nationwide for his conservative views on education, Dr. Rafferty served on the Troy State Education faculty for 10 years.

Not only was he the author of many books on the topic of education, but he also had a syndicated radio program entitled, "Education Today" and he maintained a newspaper column, called the Max

Rafferty Column" syndicated by the Los Angeles Time.

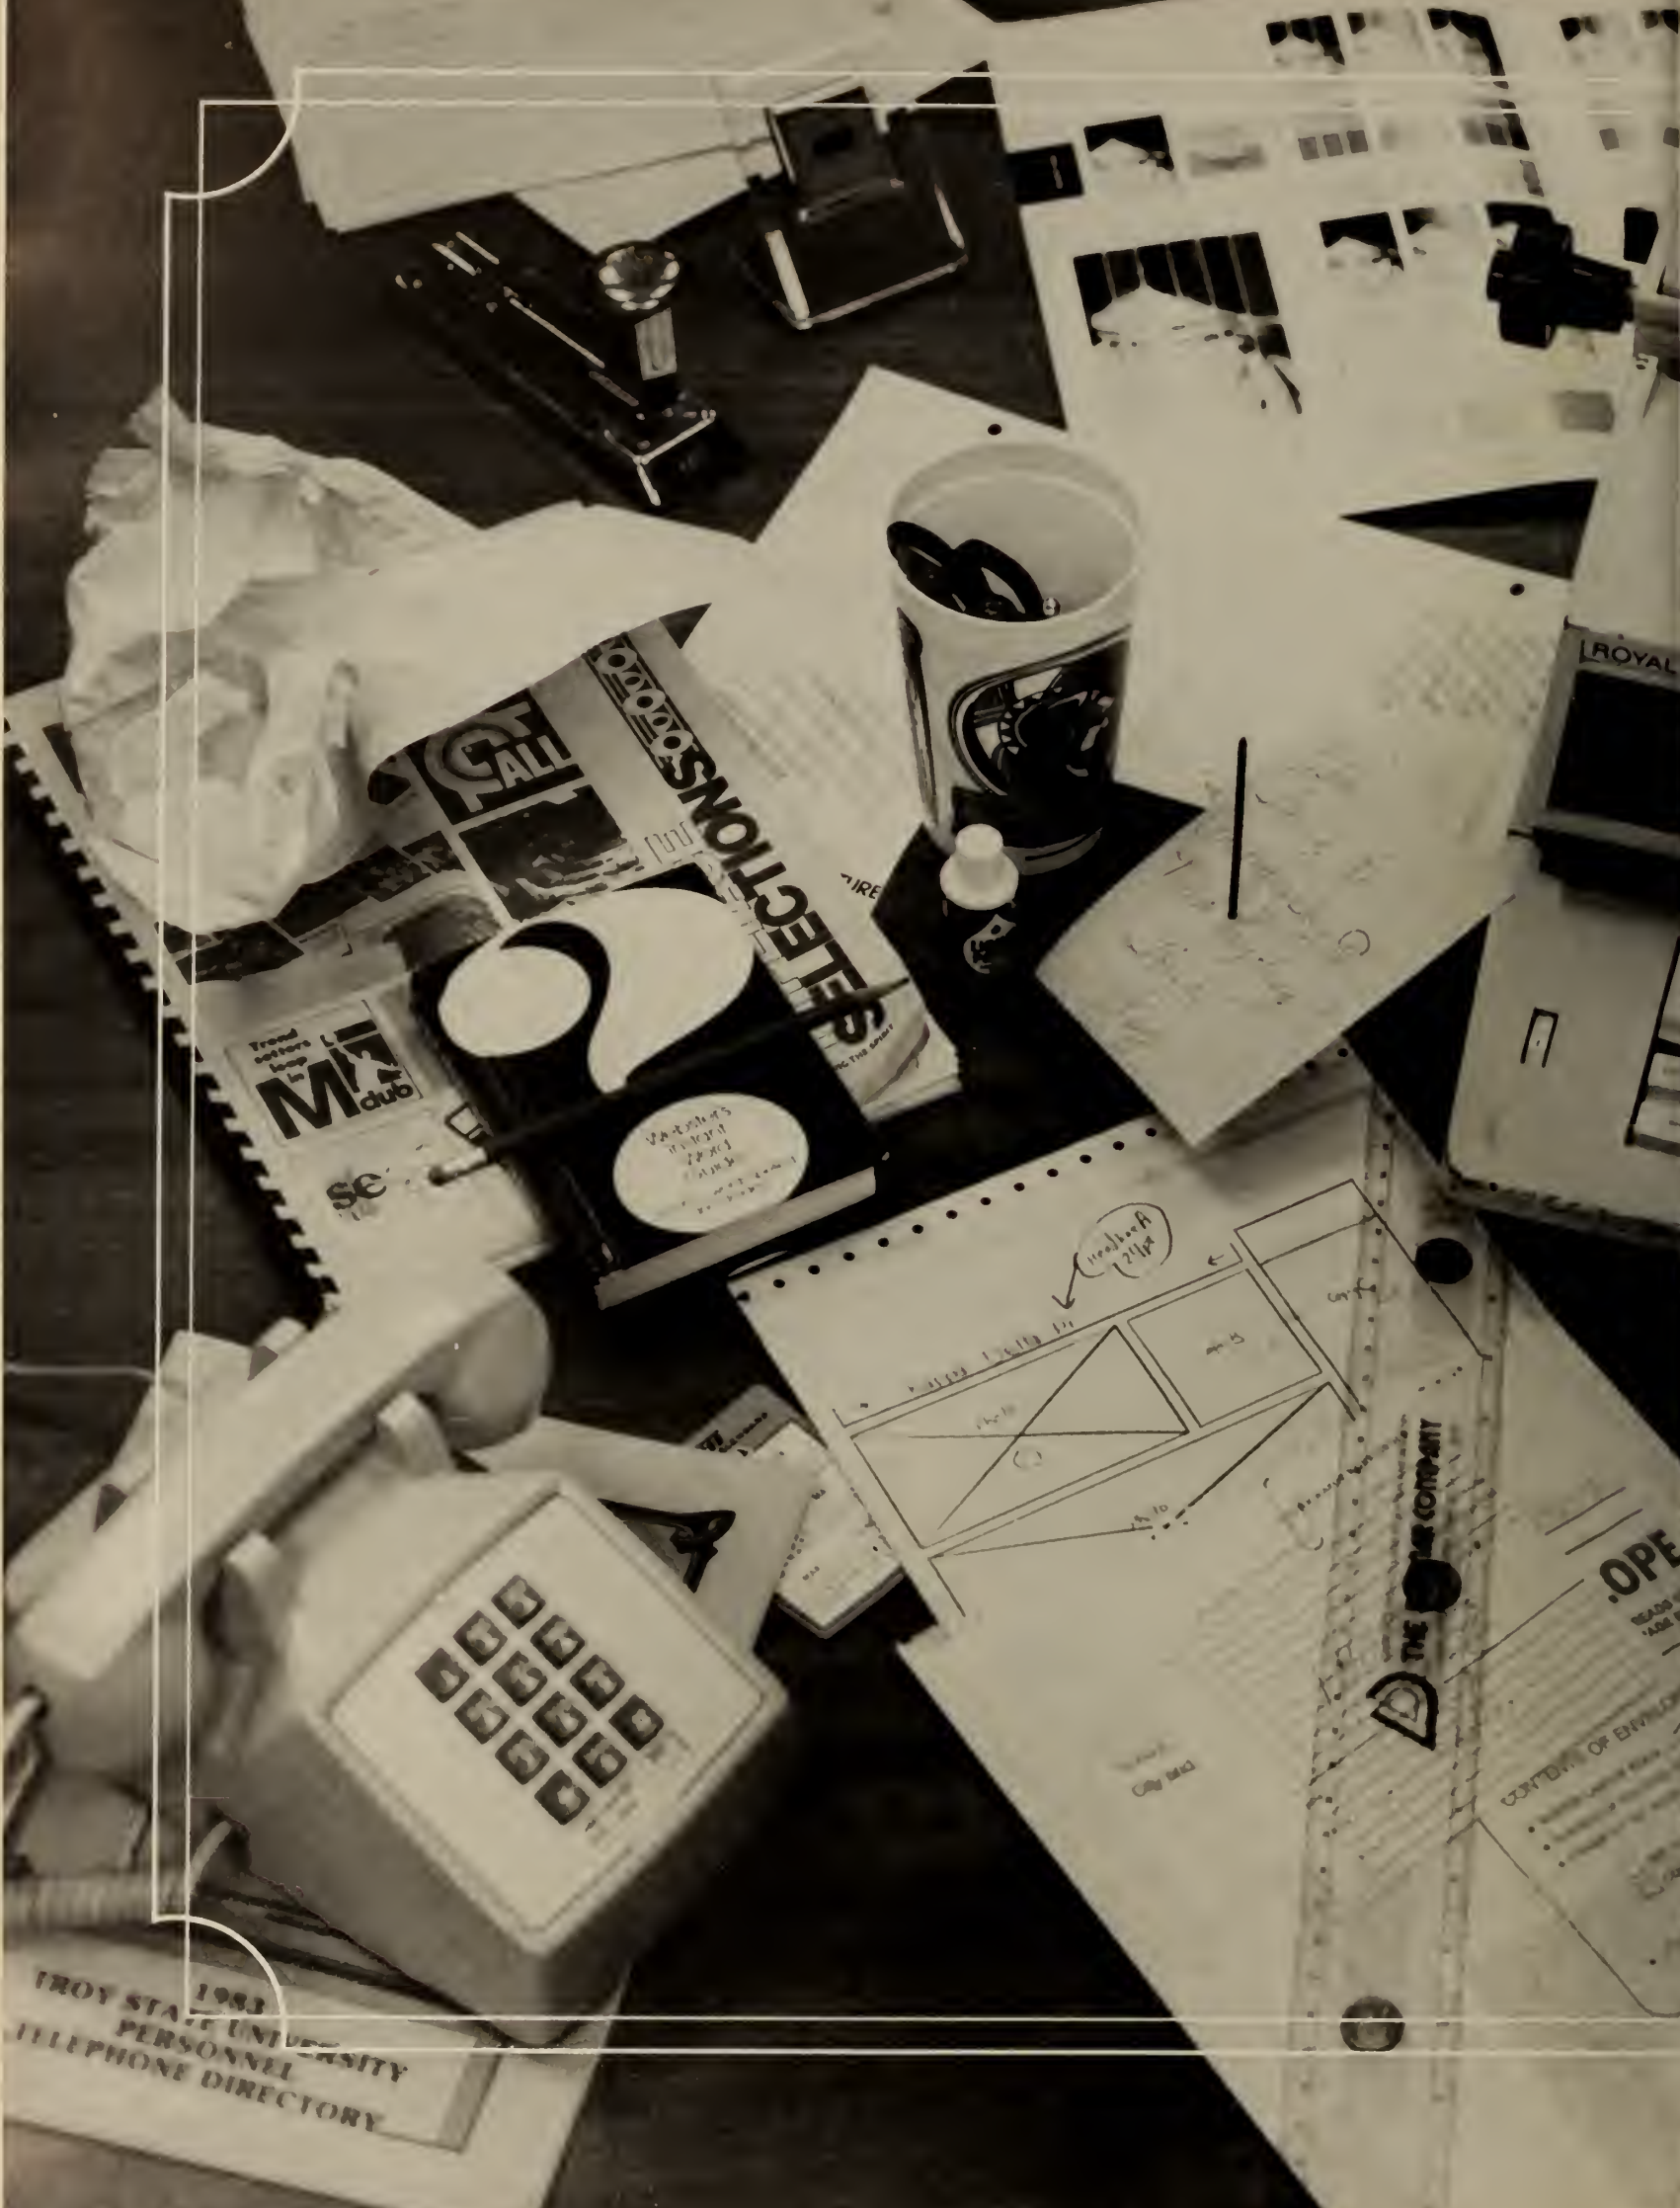

Rafferty was certainly known throughout America as an educator with strong convictions about our country's school system. Those who knew Max Rafferty, the individual, remember him as a delightful speaker, a dignified gentleman, and a convincing fighter.

Troy State University is proud of its many accomplishments in the continued goal of quality education. As long as the University has the intelligent, enterprising administration that it had during 1983 and as long as it enrolls students who reach for the best in life, the University will continue to thrive.

Students like Miss Alabama, who are role models that are recommended for extraordinary achievement. One of the Ralph Wynn Award winners in front of the

EDITOR'S NOTE:

"No one ever said that it was going to be easy." This quote went through my mind many times this year, especially when problems arose. Life is not easy, but with the help of others it can be made a little easier.

Many people made it easier for me. Ray was always there with a smile to make the day seem brighter. Jeff was so organized and made everything work well. Susan had the ideas and carried them through. Donny took "a lot of bull" from me, but always smiled and got the job done. Jacqueline had the faith in me which kept me going to the very end. To all of you, I owe everything for a job well done. You made it all a little easier.

I Sincerely Thank You!

Leslie Braman
